Dole To Head Republicans

Would Replace Rogers Morton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert J. Dole, a first-term senator whose political record has earned him presidential favor while dividing his GOP colleagues, will take over the Republican National Committee, according to sources in the party and close to the White House.

Dole's appointment likely will come next week during the national committee's annual meeting here, the sources say.

The post opened up six weeks ago when President Nixon named the current chairman, Rep. Rogers C.B. Morton of Maryland, to replace fired Interior Department Secretary Walter J. Hickel.

Speculation had centered around Dole until mid-December when several Republican senators, including Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, opposed the Kansas senator and plans to announce President Nixon's choice by Christmas were scrapped.

Now the sources say, Dole is alone in the running.

Dole himself told The Associated Press he believes he is the leading contender but had not been notified by the White House he would get the job.

Dole has made no secret he wants the post, maintaining Scott and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., are wrong in saying he can't handle both the committee and his job in the Senate.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that Scott and Griffin apparently have dropped their opposition to Dole after meeting with the Kansas Republican Tuesday.

The Post said the 47-year-old freshman senator assured Scott and Griffin he would respect their prerogatives in directing legislative strategy for the President's programs, while reserving his right to speak out as an individual senator and as party chairman when Nixon's policies are under partisan attack.

The Post also said informants reported Dole told the two men he would take no part in any challenge to their reelection.

In the meantime, the GOP national headquarters announced Tuesday Morton will name a nominating committee this week to formally recommend a new chairman to the national committee. The nominating committee will meet first with Nixon, however.

1970 A Good Year For FBI, Hoover Says

Most Syndicate Convictions Ever, Director Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — To FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, 1970 was a very good year. More fugitives were located, more organized-crime figures convicted and more fingerprints checked than in any previous year in the agency's history, the FBI chief said today.

And, according to the FBI's arithmetic, it all was done at a profit.

"Fines, savings and recoveries in FBI investigations during the period reached the record figure of over $422 million, a return of $1.60 for every dollar appropriated for FBI operations," Hoover said in his annual report to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

However, Hoover reported a rise in new-left violence, aircraft hijackings and killings of police by black militants, and added:

"As long as crime continues to increase and dissident elements continue to strive violently to destroy our current way of life, law enforcement cannot afford to look back for long on past accomplishments, but must look ahead and seek new ways to meet old challenges."

In the calendar year 1970, Hoover said, 468 persons involved in organized crime were convicted as a result of FBI investigations. Convictions in 1969 totaled 319, the FBI said.

The FBI tracked down a record total of 32,000 fugitives wanted for violations of federal or state laws, including Angela Davis, who declared her innocence Tuesday to murder and kidnap charges in California.

Miss Davis was among several of the FBI's ten most-wanted fugitives to be captured in 1970. That list itself grew to a record

Red China Less Tart In New Year

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's greeting to 1971 was less strident than its statements at the start of 1970. The cliches about revolution and the hate of Soviet and American rulers continue, but they are muted in the annual policy statement carried by Peking publications.

The mood this year is buoyant where in 1970 it was bitter and belligerent. The long, detailed indictments of Soviet "revisionism" and U.S. "imperialism" have been dropped and in their place appears an unusual promise that, in its international relations, Peking "at no time ... ever will behave like a superpower, neither today nor in the future."

All this seems a reflection of stability following three tumultuous years of Cultural Revolution purge. The third five-year plan "has been successfully fulfilled," rich harvests have been reaped for nine years running, industry is on the upsurge, prices are stable and "the market is thriving," Peking says.

The picture may be rosier than the reality, but it contrasts with the chaos of the Cultural Revolution.

Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to mend the broken Communist party apparatus and reassert its dominance over the military has made progress.

The fourth National People's Congress and the fourth five-year plan began this year. It also is to be the 50th anniversary of the party, formed July 1, 1921.

Absent from this year's blueprint are 1970 references to "political power growing out of the barrel of a gun," the personal attacks on Soviet leaders, and threats to "draw" potential invaders.

Frances Hawkins, 49, said it will be a sad end to the 25 years she has taught in the Hawthorne area.

"But the people of Hawthorne voted for me and now I'm going to the capital to represent them and that's that," she told a newsman Tuesday.

Miss Hawkins, a Democrat, defeated a local businessman in the November election. But the school board unanimously refused Monday night to grant her leave of absence without pay for the 60-day legislative session, saying she will be fired automatically the day the session opens in two weeks.

The legislature meets once during her two-year term.

Petitions asking the board to let her serve signed by more than 1,000 people—half the adults in this town of 3,900—failed to change the board's mind.

Board President Floyd Justus said his daughter and all the other children in Miss Hawkins' class will suffer "if they have a part-time teacher that comes and goes."

Flurry Of Bills Hits Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A flood of legislation inundated both houses of the fledgling 109th General Assembly Tuesday, with more expected today.

In all, 57 bills were introduced in the House, and 85 governor's appointments, ranging from terms on the Forest Advisory Council to the Reclamation Board of Review, were given Senate confirmation.

According to legislators, the flurry of activity represents a continuation of routine work begun Monday at the opening of the session, a kind of "Mad Hater" approach to the new legislative term, as one lawmaker put it.

Most of the bills introduced in the House involved legislation that did not survive the final days of the 108th General Assembly in June.

Among the measures reintroduced was one calling for a code of ethics for state officials and legislators.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-9 Springfield, the bill's author said a similar proposal of his had been reported out of the House Ways and Means Committee last year but died in the Rules Committee.

Fry's proposal would establish three policing committees, one each for the House, Senate and other public employees.

The committees would be charged with the authority to investigate complaints that officials of the state had used their office for personal gain.

Findings of the committees could be turned over to law enforcement officials for action. The measure provides for a one-year jail term or a $5,000 fine, or both, for offenders.

Chester Cruze, R-18 Cincinnati, brought up for consideration another measure discussed during the last session — collective bargaining for public employees, including teachers.

The bill prohibits strikes or lockouts, but includes a provision that in case of a strike the public employer can suspend dues-checkoffs for up to two years.

Bills empowering the Air Pollution Control Board to establish noise and emission standards for all types of aircraft and authorizing the state to charge individuals or industrial polluters of state waterways with the costs of restoration, found their way back into legislative hoppers.

Two bills designed to implement a constitutional amendment authorizing tax relief for homeowners over 65—approved by voters last November — were introduced.

One, under the sponsorship of Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-7 Laura, calls for real estate tax exemptions for those over 65

Funds Earmarked To Study Remodeling Of City Hall

Circleville City Council Tuesday appropriated $4,000 to finance a study to determine the feasibility of remodeling and renovating city hall.

The study will include comparison costs on construction of a new municipal facility to replace city hall should it be determined financially impracticable to renovate the historic old structure.

Samuel (Pete) Cook, second ward councilman, questioned whether it would be wise to spend that amount of money for a study, particularly should it prove to be unwise to remodel the present structure.

Third Ward Councilman Harold Clifton, who has long been an advocate of repairing the old building before it becomes too late, said it was necessary to make the study to determine what steps the city should be planning.

AFTER an intensive debate of the matter, during which Mayor Richard Gerhardt pointed out the study would include some immediate needs of the old structure such as wiring, plumbing and heating, the ordinance to appropriate the $4,000 was passed unanimously.

Also prompting considerable debate in council chambers Tuesday was an ordinance to improve Nicholas Drive, using funds from State Bond Issue 1. Read for a second time at last night's meeting, the measure was held for a third reading before action.

Councilman at large Frank Barnhill said that Nicholas Drive had twice been improved in recent years and questioned whether any traffic problem in the area would be alleviated by further work.

Mayor Gerhardt explained the ordinance before council was basically part of the application for the state funds and did not assure council the project would be approved by the state.

Councilman At Large David Crawford stated the project could be dropped if it appeared that it would be too costly to the city. The city must pay for all engineering costs and for acquisition of right of way.

An ordinance authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids for a forced air heating system at the fire department was passed after suspension of the rules.

Also passed was a measure authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids for fire hydrants. Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe told council the safety department hoped to purchase 20 or more fire hydrants but the exact number would depend on the cost. Last year 30 hydrants were replaced in the

President Sets Greeting To Incoming Congressmen

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — With the sound of his attack on the 91st Congress echoing through the near empty halls of Capitol Hill a continent away, President Nixon worked today on his greeting for the new Congress.

Nixon, spending the first day of at least a week's stay at the California White House, indicated he would be writing, sharpening his State of the Union address, which will recall calls for administration proposals rejected or not acted on by the 91st Congress.

Before leaving Washington Tuesday, the President said the just adjourned session "will be remembered and remarked upon in history, not so much for what it did but for what it failed to do."

Republican congressional leaders said the attack was meant for the Democrats; congressional Democrats countered Nixon charges of failure with similar charges against the administration.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma answered back that it was the Nixon administration, not Congress, that will be remembered for what it failed to do—"for its failure to halt inflation, for its failure to stop rising unemployment, and for its failure to gain and hold the confidence of the country."

Nixon said the Congress passed much valuable and useful legislation, but added it lost "the opportunity to write one of the most productive and memorable chapters in the history of American government" by not acting on a score of his proposals.

Topping the list were his welfare reform and revenue-sharing programs that he said "died of neglect."

Among the proposals for the 92nd Congress will be an expanded revenue-sharing program, the Family Assistance Welfare Reform Plan, a program to overhaul the federal system of grants-in-aid to states and localities, raises in military pay and Social Security benefits, a program to limit textile imports, and aid for schools that have special problems because of rapid desegregation.

To the new Congress, which also will be controlled by Democrats, Nixon declared: "Let us open the New Year in a new spirit. To that end I pledge the full cooperation of this administration."

He made another pledge, one to his Cabinet in which he said there will be no further changes. Nixon fired Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel last year, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy resigned, and the Washington rumor mill claimed other changes were in the making.

9 Different Fires Found In Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fire department officials in suburban Deer Park tried today to determine how nine different fires started in the same house at the same time.

Firemen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gartner, owners of the house, said that when they arrived Tuesday night fires were burning in every mattress and every upholstered chair.

Deer Park Fire Chief Louis Voelker said it "definitely" appeared to have been arson but how the fires were started was under investigation.

Utility Firms' Advertising Under Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lee Metcalf says America's privately owned electric utilities spend seven-and-a-half times more for "sell and tell"—advertisements and sales—than on research and development.

Basing his complaint on data obtained from the Federal Power Commission, the Montana Democrat accused the investor-owned power firms of having "embarked upon another deceptive advertising campaign."

"They are trying to meet massive technological problems by massive advertising and sales promotion—this despite the energy shortage—rather than by the needed massive research-and-development programs," he said in a statement along with a listing in the Congressional Record.

Expenditures for ads and sales rose 11.8 per cent from 1968 to 1969, up from $289.6 million to $323.8 million, while research-and-development expenses increased 6.9 per cent from $38.4 million to $41 million, he said. The 1969 figures were the latest available.

Forty-six of 210 major electric utilities, he said "did not spend a cent on research and development in 1969." These 210 companies took in more than $21 billion that year, while federal income taxes dropped from 9.2 per cent to 8 per cent of the revenue dollar, he added.

This U.S. tax reduction could have added "many millions of dollars to the research-and-development budget, but this reallocation was not made," he said. "Instead some of the companies are asking for tax incentives for research and development."

The senator said he will seek FPC action to disallow inclusion of advertising and sales promotion as an operating expense. A policy change by FPC—which has limited jurisdiction—could have a salutary supportive effect among state commissions' which bear most rate regulatory responsibility on electric utilities, he added.

Both Listed As Receiving Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential hopeful Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford are listed as receiving donations from a controversial bank campaign fund whose money was spurned by 18 other congressmen.

The Bankers Political Action Committee, now under investigation on two fronts, told Congress in a year-end report it wound up with $120,000 it couldn't give away.

At least 16 representatives, all serving on the House Banking Committee, and two senators are listed as turning down checks from the bank group.

But the final report by the campaign fund shows six other senators and 37 congressmen received a total of $167,000 in contributions, almost all of it in the last few days before the election.

Muskie, a member of the Senate Banking Committee, got $2,500 in campaign help from the group.

Ford and Democratic Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana were listed as receiving bank fund contributions of $2,000 each.

The bank report also shows $1,000 given to Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

A House investigating committee is due to send its findings to Congress next Monday after a two-month probe of the bank contributions.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, asked for a Justice Department investigation also. Patman charged the bankers' donations were aimed at influencing the fate of a regulatory

IF you are late, you might miss the short Twelfth Night tree burning scheduled tonight ... Circleville's mayor has secured a musical group from Circleville High School who will present a few appropriate numbers for the ceremony ...

A brief talk will be given on the background of the tree burning as it relates to Biblical times ...

City employees will be on duty for three hours — from 4 to 7 p.m. tonight — to accept Christmas trees for the fire ... The trees will be set afire at exactly 7 p.m. ... The entire event is not expected to exceed 15 or 20 minutes, the mayor reported.

THE mayor has been accused of contributing to air pollution by Councilman Frank Barnhill ... At the end of council meeting Tuesday Barnhill read a news story stating the Twelfth Night tree burning tradition had been canceled in another city because it contributed to air pollution and because citizens were not permitted to burn their own ...

The mayor answered the accusation by saying the burning is being promoted as a means of removing a fire hazard from private homes and property to an area where the burning can be controlled ...

He also pointed out that Roundtowners could burn their own trees providing conditions set down by the city's trash and leaf burning ordinance were met ...

After hearing Barnhill's plea for cleaner air, we worried about the pollution coming from woodburning fireplaces around town.

GET out your snugglies and check the fuel supply ... Overnight temperatures will drop to the season's lowest at 5 degrees ... Coincidentally, low temperature recorded Jan. 6, 1970 was 5 degrees.

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today unveiled a sweeping new program to combat drug abuse among American forces in Vietnam. It includes search-and-destroy operations with marijuana plants as the target.

A 64-page directive to all field commanders estimated that more than 65,000 GIs were guilty of drug abuse during 1970, including more than 11,000 apprehended or investigated and five times as many who escaped detection.

It was the U.S. Command's first public acknowledgment that drugs have become one of its major problems.

The command said that of 9,253 drug violations by American troops during the first 10 months of last year, 7,065 were for use or possession of marijuana, 1,452 for use or possession of such "dangerous" drugs as amphetamines, barbiturates or LSD, and 736 for use or possession of narcotics, mostly heroin or opium.

The Army also has reported that during the first 10 months of 1970, there were 25 confirmed drug deaths among Americans in Vietnam, another 61 fatalities in which drugs were suspected, and more than 700 hospital cases related to drugs.

The directive from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, orders his subordinate commanders throughout the country to conduct ground and air search operations to locate marijuana plants, and to "utilize their resources, equipment and personnel in assisting the South Vietnamese government in eradicating the unlawful growing of marijuana," when the eradication work does not interfere with military operations.

The directive adds that while U.S. forces will search for marijuana, "under no circumstances will such fields, once discovered, be destroyed by U.S. forces. The responsibility for destroying these crops rest with the government of South Vietnam."

Although the directive apparently is the first formal statement that destruction of marijuana fields is an objective of U.S. policy, the burning of fields has been carried out in some areas for two years or more.

A great deal of marijuana grows in the grassland provinces of the western Mekong Delta. Some of it is cultivated as a cash crop, especially by

The burning of these fields, reportedly at the urging of U.S. officials, has strained relations with the Hoa Hao from time to time, sources in the delta say.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said a bounty of one piaster, less than one U.S. cent, is being paid to the Vietnamese for each marijuana plant destroyed.

Police sources said about 700 Vietnamese were convicted last year for growing, possessing or selling marijuana, while about 1,300 were jailed for LSD or opium offenses. In most cases they got three to six months in jail.

Abrams also directed field commanders to develop drug suppression programs including "identification and reduction of morale and welfare factors which may lead to drug abuse such as idleness, loneliness, anxiety and frustration."

Drug abuse suppression councils are to be formed in each command down to the battalion level. The mission of the councils will be to provide for analysis, evaluation, and monitoring of all aspects of narcotics and drug suppression within the command.

The commanders were told to step up drug abuse education programs, to insure that each of their men is aware of the drug danger. The directives also said programs of amnesty and rehabilitation under way in some commands would be expanded, coordinated and standardized to aid those "who demonstrate a sincere desire to reform."

The directive also outlined any groups that will be formed: 1. A combined anti-narcotics enforcement committee, to be established in each of the four military regions, to eliminate illicit traffic by Vietnamese civilians in narcotics, drugs and related substances; 2. A joint narcotics investigative detachment, made up of representatives from each of the investigative services, which will seek to destroy drugs at the source or stop them before they reach American troops; 3. A joint customs group to assume responsibility for all military customs operations, including inspection of mail, shipments of household goods and unaccompanied baggage, and the processing of personnel arriving in Vietnam and their baggage.

President of the JVS board for 1971 will be Nelson Stevens, a Pickaway County School board member, his vice president Gerald Radcliff of the Chillicothe City School board.

Paul Hydel, superintendent of Chillicothe Schools, will continue in his duties as acting clerk of the joint board. Ross County Superintendent of Schools James Shope, will again serve as acting superintendent of the vocational district.

The next meeting of the board will be 8 p.m. Jan. 21 at the Equitable Federal bank in Circleville.

Of the 26 recipients listed in a pre-election report by the bank fund, all except eight rejected the contributions amid the controversy that resulted. Muskie was one of the eight whose campaign committees accepted the money, the final statement shows.

The bank fund, in its year-end report, said it also gave last-minute donations to 34 more candidates—all of them incumbents. And it added another $2,500 for newly elected Sen. William E. Brock, R-Tenn., one week after he won his tight race over incumbent Albert Gore.

Included among the latest recipients were nine of the 15 members of the House Rules Committee, the powerful panel that clears bills for House action.

In contrast to the 16 House Banking Committee members who turned down the checks, the final report listed six others as accepting them:

Reps. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, Garry Brown, R-Mich., and Charles H. Griffin, D-Miss., $2,500 each; William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., $1,500; and Benjamin R. Blackburn, R-Ga., and Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif., $1,000 each.

Bowing to the furor that followed its original listing of contributions before they had been delivered to all the congressmen named, the bank fund said it based its final year-end report on only those checks actually cashed.

Laird Reports

U.S. Combat Role Nearly Finished

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that American combat responsibility in South Vietnam will be ended this year.

Laird told a news conference that the first phase of the Nixon administration's Vietnamization program will be completed by midsummer. He said after that, American forces will be limited to logistics, air support and security roles.

The defense secretary and Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, stopped in Paris on their way to Bangkok and Saigon for talks on the progress of the war and the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Laird said Phase Two of the Vietnamization program calls for training and equipping the South Vietnamese forces to take over the logistics and air support missions. He said that this part of the program is ahead of schedule but requires much more time than the first phase.

Big Labor Sets All-Out Fight Against Nixon Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor has vowed an all-out fight in Congress against President Nixon's attempt to win a new anti-strike law and some other high-priority White House legislation.

"It's going to be a year of legislative fighting," said a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany after Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson said the strike bill will have top White House priority.

"We will oppose compulsory arbitration any time, any place," the spokesman for the 13.6-million member labor federation said Tuesday.

Hodgson said the Nixon administration will press for the nation's first new strike law in a quarter century to deal with such "national emergency strikes" in transportation as the recently postponed nationwide railroad walkout. Congress on Dec. 10 passed a special law halting that strike, but it could resume March 1.

"Such strikes become something like an industrial bomb," Hodgson said.

The Nixon strike bill will be similar to one that got nowhere in Congress last year. It would give the president power to delay strikes up to 110 days, allow partial strikes against an essential industry or set up an impartial board to set a binding settlement.

Hodgson said other major Nixon goals in the new Congress include another try at the family assistance plan for welfare reform; turning most federal job-training programs over to the states; federal revenue sharing with financially strapped cities and states; further efforts to get more job opportunities for Negroes, and an attempt to curb what he called astronomical construction wage increases.

The AFL-CIO opposes some aspects of most of these programs.

"It's going to be a year of clashes with the administration on Capitol Hill," said the AFL-CIO spokesman.

He said labor generally approves Nixon's welfare reform to put a $1,600 floor under all families, including the working poor, but will fight the administration's compromise with the Senate requiring recipients to work at jobs paying as little as $1.20 per hour.

"We are against compelling people to work at substandard jobs at less than the $1.60-per-hour minimum wage," he said.

The labor federation also opposes no-strings-attached federal revenue sharing with cities and states, he said, and demands that any job training bill provide money for public service jobs to put the unemployed to work. Nixon vetoed such a bill, saying he opposes creation of "dead-end" jobs at government expense.

Viet Reds Shell Cambodian Navy Boats In River Convoy

PHNOM PENH (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners shelled Cambodian navy boats just before midnight Tuesday as they convoyed two gasoline tankers up the Mekong River to Phnom Penh the Cambodian command announced.

It was the second attack on the convoy in less than 24 hours. The command said one sailor was killed and three wounded in the ambush 39 miles southeast of the capital.

There were unofficial reports that one tanker was hit by rocket fire in the earlier attack, but the command announced that only seven sailors were wounded.

Premier Lon Nol's government has been forced to convoy petroleum cargoes up the Mekong from South Vietnam since November when Communist troops cut Highway 4, the land link between Phnom Penh and the coast.

Gasoline now is severely rationed in the capital. Government officials said last month the city had less than three weeks' gasoline, but river convoys have reached the capital since then.

The Cambodian military spokesman announced today that Lon Nol inspected the southwestern front along Highway 4 this week and that his helicopter arrived at Kompong Seila soon after enemy mortar shells and rockets began falling there.

The spokesman said Kompong Seila, about 65 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, is the "center of resistance" and is under daily attack.

More than 1,000 enemy troops are reported five miles northeast of Kompong Seila at Pich Nil, where the highway enters the Elephant Mountains. Government forces began an operation New Year's weekend trying to move against the enemy from north and south to open the highway, but no progress has been reported.

There was little ground action reported in South Vietnam, but the U.S. Command reported an Army OH58 observation helicopter was shot down just south of the demilitarized zone, wounding three Americans. Field reports said about 10 North Vietnamese soldiers fired on the helicopter. Other U.S. aircraft killed two of the enemy.

Colorado Agency Plans 'Green Belt' Around Denver

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Environmental Commission, an advisory agency for the state government, wants to keep the wide open spaces around the four-county Denver metropolitan area wide open.

It proposes to do so by limiting the population to 1.5 million persons, 250,000 more than now reside here.

The commission approved a plan Tuesday to shut off Denver and suburban growth by setting up a green belt of parks and agricultural projects 35 miles wide to fence out encroaching population from satellite communities.

"It's an idealistic concept," said Dr. Max Peters, commission chairman and dean of the college of engineering at the University of Colorado, "but it will get people talking. It's a good bill."

The population limit and green belt concept were included in a proposed Colorado Environmental Act of 1971. A section said, "No political subdivisions shall exceed a total population of 1.5 million persons."

There was no recommendation on how the population within the complex would be contained, once the maximum was reached.

U.S. Capitol Not Crumbling, Architectural Firm Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The venerable walls of the U.S. Capitol's west front are in no danger of tumbling down, Congress has been told, and can be restored to 18th Century perfection by 20th Century technology at relatively modest cost.

The report of an independent New York architectural firm may permanently lay to rest plans to encase the 150-year-old sandstone walls in a malleable extension—including tourist restaurants and 40 new bathrooms. Far from collapsing, the report said, the Capitol "survives in relatively good condition, attesting to the excellence of its builders and to the concern of those responsible for maintaining this, the national monument to our republic."

The report, by the firm of Praeger, Kavanagh and Waterbury, said old columns should not be replaced merely because they are frayed and eroded by time, and concluded restoration can be carried out under congressional guidelines.

"The Capitol is 150 years old," the report said, "and should give an impression of venerable age, not a crisp newness that denies its historical background."

Required by Congress last year, the report goes to a congressional body whose name has been entirely consistent with its long-sought goals: "The Commission for the Extension of the Capitol."

That commission led and directed the successful drive to extend the Capitol's east front more than a decade ago.

It has since waged a campaign to do the same for the west front, contending that part of the building has so deteriorated it could easily give way, possibly leading to collapse of the building's central section and its towering dome.

The commission recently lost two of the major forces behind extension: J. George Stewart who was the Capitol architect when he died last year; and John W. McCormack, speaker of the House until his retirement at the end of the 91st Congress.

Funds ...

(Continued from Page One) city and 11 new ones added. Cost of the hydrants was $163 each but salesman for the firm that was successful bidder for the hydrants purchased last year has advised the fire chief that a substantial price increase could be expected this year.

AN ordinance authorizing the director of public service to enter into a contract for the preparation of a preliminary engineering report defining a TOPICS program for the city of Circleville was held for a second reading. TOPICS is a federal 50-50 matching fund program for traffic and parking improvement for municipalities.

An ordinance providing for a pay increase for service director Atwood (Woody) Jones was approved. The five per cent pay increase gives Jones a salary of $12,495 annually. In addition, when he becomes licensed by the state of Ohio, the ordinance provided for an increase to $12,700.

Mayor Gerhard pointed out the service director had been overlooked when pay increase ordinances were presented at the last meeting of council in December.

Present for last night's meeting were Barnhill, Crawford, Clifton, Cook, David Goldschmidt, Gladden Troutman, Keith Wagner, Clerk Robert Shadley and President Joe Bell.

Concentrate The Effort

If the results of the Nixon administration's attempts to push through a comprehensive welfare reform measure — the most far-reaching in history — are any indication, perhaps the better approach would be to attack the problem a step at a time instead of in one grand assault.

Conservatives and liberals, Republicans and Democrats, split on the Nixon proposal in so many directions it was almost like a series of time bombs going off.

One of the first orders of business in the 92nd Congress will be, once again, welfare reform. Failure to complete action by the 91st does not kill the need for some kind of reform.

The growth of welfare, the devastating effect it is having on whole communities, the ingrained pattern it has developed through generations of recipients, and the seemingly unending cost spiral all add up to failure.

Working labor training and work incentive programs into the system ought to help break up the welfare cycle. Concentrating on that angle might prove more fruitful than opting for a totally new welfare package.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Nowhere else in the executive suite are responsibilities broadening as they are for the chief financial officer. No longer just a scorekeeper, the CFO is now a cog in advance planning and policy formulation.

The change hasn't been abrupt, although the alarming drought in liquidity that occurred during the past year, highlighted by the inability of the Penn Central to raise enough money to remain solvent, accelerated the change.

Companies that once worried primarily about production or merchandising suddenly realized during the past summer that they could not routinely depend upon their usual sources of financing, and so the CFO's duties assumed greater importance.

But financing is only one of the factors in the transition of the corporate money man. Complex taxes, new accounting procedures, mergers, computerization, insurance, pensions plans and profit sharing also are forcing the CFO to be more broadly involved.

Reflecting this growing importance, salaries for CFO's now generally range between $50,000 and $75,000, according to a survey by the management consulting firms of Heidrick & Struggles, scheduled to be released Feb. 1.

The firm received a 59 per cent response to a questionnaire sent to the chief financial executives of the 500 largest industries.

trial companies and 247 other companies, including utilities and insurers.

From the replies, it drew this profile of the CFO:

He is 51, compared with 53 years of age five years ago. Most likely his undergraduate degree is from Wisconsin, Illinois, New York, Northwestern or Pennsylvania universities. There is a 40 per cent chance he has an advanced degree, most likely from Harvard or NYU, and a 33 per cent chance he is a certified public accountant.

He is relatively stationary in what is becoming an increasingly mobile business world, having worked for only one or two other employers. In fact, if he works for an insurance or utility concern, there is a 50 per cent chance that he had only one other employer or none at all.

While his compensation is likely to be between $50,000 and $75,000, he may in some companies earn more than $100,000 in salary, bonus and deferred pay. Increasingly he is the beneficiary of stock option and other benefits.

The survey demonstrated, in fact, that salary today is really the base for compensation rather than the total amount. Some 6 per cent they reported they receive cash bonuses, more than 50 per cent receive club memberships, 91 per cent are given stock options and 74 per cent receive insurance.

Detonator Cord Found In Coal Mine

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) — A federal inspector has reported the discovery of an unauthorized explosives detonator in a coal mine where 38 men were killed in an explosion last Wednesday.

James Westfield of the U.S. Bureau of Mines said the material called primer cord, was spotted during an intensive search of the ill-fated mine.

He declined to specify how much was found or comment on its significance, but he said: "It is not the practice (to use primer cord) in coal mines. It is not permissible."

The new information came on the eve of a public hearing scheduled to begin Wednesday in the Leslie County courthouse. Elbert Osborn the new director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, will fly from Washington to preside.

A primer cord often is used for highway and quarry work to touch off powerful explosives, but not in underground mines, because of the danger of igniting coal dust.

Federal and state inspectors said after their weekend probe into the Friday mine's horizontal shafts that an explosion resulted from a routine blasting operation and was carried around the mine by coal dust.

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN OVERSTUFFED pillar of Chicago society found herself seated next to a famous collector of rare books at a dinner party recently and as an opening gambit, hazarded,

"I hear you collect old books." "That I do," he assured her. "What an interesting little hobby," she gushed. "Picked up any Gutenberg Bibles lately?"

A few more exact quotes from rural English newspapers rounded up by an eagle-eyed scout at Punch Magazine: 1. "Reports of a crocodile crawling across the busiest intersection on Great Ouse Street could not be substantiated." 2. "Mr. C. E. Bird of Throble Nest, has found a blue Budgerigar with a red rubber ring on its leg." 3. "The stage production of 'Oh, Calcutta!' is an insult to human dignity, insists Canon A. S. Oseroff in his parish magazine. He refers also to the fish and chip wrappings deposited on the main road between the Clock Tower and the Fox and Goose Hotel."

Reflections of a cynic:
1. Jet planes and super-highways make it much easier to visit relatives—especially ancestors.
2. When a man forgets himself, he generally does something everybody else remembers.
3. Some men take a day off on their birthdays. Many women take a year—or more—off.

Memories On Sale

By GENE HANDSAKER
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Got any use for the wheeled Teddy bear drawn on a string by toddler Shirley Temple in "Captain January" Or the oval couch of Marilyn Monroe and Yves Montand in a dream sequence of "Let's Make Love"?

These and about 2,000 other items, including ersatz gorillas from "Planet of the Apes" and a gory-looking dummy head that rolled downstairs in "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte," will be up for auction next month.

Twentieth Century-Fox is going the route taken several months ago by another financially troubled studio, MGM, in disposing of its old movie props. But less extensively, MGM sold a vast 40-year accumulation ranging from Clark Gable's raincoat to the "Showboat" river steamer.

Fox is clearing out only a fraction of its approximately 55,000 properties—ones that have served their purpose, can't be used again and are taking up valuable storage space.

"Like the concert grand piano with eagle legs we made up for 'Wilson' said supervising set decorator Walter M. Scott. Scott thinks the auction should

Subtax Instead Of Surtax

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Richard Nixon killed the surtax. It did not help him very much. There is one economist — or marketing planner, as he prefers to call himself — who thinks the only thing that will restore the economy without running the risk of a dangerous renewal of inflation is a subtax, which may be defined as the precise opposite of a surtax.

The economist in question is the Washington-based consultant, William Fitzgerald, who, back in the early 1960s, accurately called the turn for the Chrysler Company on the behavior of the car market for 1970. Mr. Fitzgerald was trained at the Tuck School at Dartmouth, and at Wayne University.

The trouble with most economic advisers, in Mr. Fitzgerald's view, is that they deal in raw aggregates which do not take into consideration the earning and purchasing life cycle of our population "cells." The young, lacking money don't buy very much as individuals, even though the baby boom of the late Forties resulted in a big "teen-age market in terms of volume for the early 1960s. The old, lacking desires, slack off even though they may have money. It is the people in the middle years who need capacious single family houses, two or three cars, vacation places for the children, money for country clubs and for travel. They buy the more expensive durable goods.

With his population cell theory, Mr. Fitzgerald predicted bad times for automobiles and housing in the late Nineteen Sixties and going on into the Seventies. His reasoning was based on the fact that fewer people had been born in the depression years of the 1930s. This meant that there would be fewer families in the 35-44-year age category coming into the full flush of their productive years in the late 1960s.

Traditionally the U.S. Treasury has relied on the middle-year categories for much of its taxes. It is in the forties that men normally jump into the higher tax brackets.

But when the overall number of the higher bracket taxpayers decreases the government suffers along with private consumption. Seeking desperately to make up for the fall-off in revenue, the government is prone to take bad advice. It tries to compensate for its difficulties by turning to inflation, higher taxes, or a combination of the two things. The "transfer" in purchasing power that results from taking disposable income away from the 35-44 "population cells," which are at the crest of spending life, and handing it over to the young and the old as some offset value when calculating aggregate income. But the young and the old don't build houses, they don't buy cars for big families, they don't go in for expensive kitchens or for jet voyages.

Mr. Fitzgerald has fascinating charts that demonstrate the probable effect of a subtax — i.e. a negative tax on one's overall tax — on the consumption patterns of the nation. A 5 per cent reduction in taxes owed by the tax paying population, assuming a realistic

4 per cent level of inflation, would, in 1971, add $4.3 billion in purchasing power to the people. In 1972, the year in which Richard Nixon will be seeking re-election, the "subtax effect" would give $1.73 billion in disposable income to the 35-44-year group, and $2.32 billion to the 55-64 group. The total in additional disposal income accruing to the whole population would be $9.47 billion. Almost certainly the extra money would flow into consumption after the present cutbacks in family expenditures that have resulted from high mortgage rates and high taxes.

Mr. Fitzgerald sees no sense in trying to increase investment in plant at the current rates of taxation and inflation, the people simply cannot afford to buy the product of additional assembly lines. We have both excess plant and incongruous high prices now at one and the same time. An increase in disposable income for consumption however would cause existing plant to be used and so prepare the day for an orderly expansion of the productive system. The government would have to turn to printing press money in order to "bull" the economy in time for the 1972 elections.

Are there flaws in Mr. Fitzgerald's "population cell" reasoning? As a curbstone economist it is not for me to say. But, sure as shooting, the first politician to propose a subtax in place of a surtax is going to find supporters. Will it be a Democrat? Or will Richard Nixon catch on? Nobody ever lost by favoring a tax cut.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Good fishermen are also usually good gardeners. If they can hook a big fish, they can grow a big tomato.

When a boss calls you on the carpet for a shortcoming, he is less likely to fire you if he glares and shouts at you than if he looks out the window and speaks in a quiet voice.

Beware a girl who prides herself more on the length of her fingernails than the breadth of her mind.

The chief reward of too much indignation is too much indigestion. If you can't swallow a thing, it's better to eschew it.

If the executives of business firms took seriously the suggestion found most often in office suggestion boxes, they wouldn't be around much. They'd be too busy taking flying trips to the moon.

American men are as slavish to fashion as women. Otherwise, why would they continue to wear hats with ridiculously small brims that make them look like children? The hat most men look best in is a modified Western sombrero.

The reason most husbands are henpecked isn't real lack of courage. It is because they are mentally lazy and prefer to let their wives make up their minds for them than take the trouble to do it for themselves.

I would rather be bored by a bore in person than over the telephone. There is something about being bored by a voice from the void that is infinitely claustrophobic a kind of inescapable doom.

Modern design is changing our lives. It is hard anymore to tell what a thing is supposed to do by the way it looks. About the only things which isn't true are trees and the old-fashioned street fire plug.

An alcoholic is a person who trades his hangovers for hangovers and ends up stuck with both.

Nothing upsets a woman more this time of year than finding she has no Christmas present she wants to exchange. It makes her feel vaguely deprived of a feminine privilege.

A perfect human life is one which, after long stress and storm, comes to a serene ending — just as a quiet sunset often closes a day of rain.

Though the floor of the Barrow-On-Sosor, England, rural council chamber sagged when members met, they turned down the suggestion all 68 of 'em go on a diet. Fat chance of that motion passing.

The Barrow council installed lighter furniture instead. They also could have cut down on discussions of weighty matters.

Campus Notes

Thomas A. Carle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Carle, Route 2, entered training on August 3 at Pittsburgh Institute of Aeronautics, Allegheny County Airport.

A graduate of Westfall High School, this is the first step of Thomas' career in the Aerospace Industry, and he is scheduled to graduate with a Federal Aviation Administration license as an Aeronautical Maintenance Technician in May, 1972.

THOMAS A. CARLE

Pittsburgh Institute of Aeronautics, established in 1929, is one of the leaders in training young men for the Aviation and Aerospace Industry.

Miss Melissa Matz, a junior at Lake Erie College in Painesville, has been selected as one of the students of her college to participate in a Winter Term Abroad program.

This is the eighteenth junior class to participate in the study program abroad.

Eleven centers in Europe and one in Israel will host the students. Miss Matz will study for nine weeks in Valencia, Spain. There she will live as part of a family native to the country.

On March 16, Miss Matz will join her classmates in London to return to the United States and the spring terms at Lake Erie College.

A 1968 graduate of Circleville High School, Miss Matz is the daughter of Mrs. Paul Matz, 469 E. Main St.

Donald D. Schaal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doane Schaal, Route 1, is among seniors who participated in commencement December 19, at Tri-State College, Angola, Ind.

DONALD SCHAAL

A graduate of Logan Elm High School, he is a major in Electrical Engineering.

His wife is the former Beverly Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stephens, Route 4, Chillicothe.

Participating with the Denison University Concert Choir, which presents two formal concerts each year — one during the Christmas season and the other in the spring is Gayle Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Hall, 1161 Lone Pine Road.

Miss Hall, a senior, is a violinist in the accompanying orchestra.

Cadet Robert M. Tootle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick T. Tootle of Route 2, is the recipient of a two-year U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps college scholarship.

Cadet Tootle receives full tuition and fees, an annual textbook allowance and a non-taxable, monthly subsistence allowance of $50.

He submitted application for the award while enrolled in the AFROTC four-year training program at Ohio Wesleyan University, where he is a junior student majoring in zoology. One, two and three-year scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to AFROTC enrollees.

Each spring, under another AFROTC program, 500 male high school senior applicants who have been accepted at a college hosting AFROTC are awarded four-year, full-tuition scholarships. Selection is based on various academic, officer-qualifying and medical examinations as well as an applicant's high school record.

Upon his graduation and completion of the AFROTC program, the cadet will be commissioned an Air Force second lieutenant.

Cadet Tootle is a 1968 graduate of Circleville High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society.

Michael S. Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Yates, 126 E. Mound St., has been pledged by Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at Denison University, Granville, where he is a freshman.

Yates is a graduate of Culver Military Academy, Indiana.

Deborah Moore, 319 Woodlane and Steve Seaburn, Route 1, Williamsport, were among 525 students joining Miami University's Honors Program this year. They were selected on the basis of the rank in their high school graduating class and the scores they earned on a college entrance test.

Emphasis is placed on independent study, the development of critical thinking and the development of creative capabilities. Students are allowed considerable freedom in selecting advanced courses and in engaging in individual study projects for credit.

James M. Caulfield, Circleville, received his graduate degree in the school of law during fall quarter graduation ceremonies at Ohio State University.

Caulfield, a New York native, received his bachelor degree from Fordham University in New York City. He served for four years as a captain in the U.S. Air Force, two in Vietnam.

Inaugural Ball Money Donated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —At the suggestion of Gov. elect John J. Gilligan's wife, Katie some $2,500 from proceeds of his Inaugural Ball will be donated to benefit mentally retarded children.

The Inaugural Committee agreed to present the money to the Mercy Committee, a group of parents of hospitalized mentally retarded children.

"We are sure those attending the ball will find their enjoyment increased by the knowledge they are helping make life a little brighter" for the children, Mrs. Gilligan said.

Pickaway County 4-Hers Win District Wool Contest

MISS CYNTHIA PALM

Cynthia Palm and Shelly May, members of the Pickaway County 4-H Club were declared winners in the district Make it Yourself With Wool Contest. Miss Palm won in the Lancaster junior district and Miss May in the Columbus district senior division.

Both girls will compete in the state contest Friday and Saturday at Marriott Inn and Eastland, Hamilton Road, Columbus. Winners will go to Las Vegas for the national event with all expenses paid by Ohio Wool Growers.

MISS SHELLEY MAY

Miss May, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger May, Route 1, modeled the maxi peasant style dress she made for the event. The material is a paisley print wool crepe of brown, gold and yellow. The bodice features a U-neckline and full long sleeves, and the gathered skirt falls to the ankles encircled with a wide ruffle. A wide yellow leather laced belt and matching shoes complimented the dress and a brown velvet choker was worn at her throat.

Miss Palm is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Palm, Route 4. She wore the purple midi jumper of wool with a rolled collar wool blouse which won first place for her at the Ohio State Fair this year. The jumper featured gold buttons and a gold chain belt interlaced with the material of the jumper. Black boots completed her ensemble.

While Pickaway County has had district winners before, this is apparently the first time there have been two in the same year and particularly so closely associated as to be in the same 4-H Club.

Wedding Plans Are Revealed

CHERYL LYNN LEASURE

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leasure, 324 S. Washington St., are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cheryl Lynn, to William M. Knece, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Knece, Williamsport.

Miss Leasure attended Circleville High School and Mr. Knece attended school in Williamsport and served two years as a Seabee in the U. S. Navy.

The wedding will be an event of Jan. 30 at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, Circleville.

Homemakers Council Meets

Homemakers Council and Leaders Training meeting was held Monday at the Extension office.

President, Joan Dawson, led members in repeating the Pledge to the Flag of the United States of America. Roll call was answered by naming the most outstanding or surprise Christmas gift each received.

A nominating committee consisting of Helen Barr, chairman; Mary Clark and Carolyn Young, were named by the president for new counselors for the coming year.

It was announced that all reports and Pennies for Friendship are to be given to Mrs. Dawson before April 1.

The spring county meeting will be held April 29 with Ethel McFarland as chairman assisted by Emily Berry and Alice Herron. The next councilors meeting will be 12:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in the Extension office. A spring Extension tour will be on March 30 with Mary Clark as chairman assisted by Doris Parsons and Norma Toland. The next Leaders Training meeting will be 1:30 p.m. Jan. 28 at the Extension office.

Assn. Names New Officers, Directors

Pickaway County Planned Parenthood Assn. recently elected new officers. They are chairman, Dennis Blecha; vice chairman, Robert Scherer with Frank Hoffman as alternate to meetings; secretary, Ramona Edman and treasurer, Pat Miller.

Board members are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Blecha, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scherer, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Ranck, Dr. and Mrs. Ray Carroll, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Hedges, Dr. and Mrs. William Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Penn, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peet, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clark.

Members of the nominating committee were Kay Peet, Pat Miller and Mary Penn.

Monrovia Garden Club Has 'Evergreen' Program

The program for the Monday evening meeting of Monrovia Garden Club in the social room of Five Points United Methodist Church was "Winter Beauty."

President, Mrs. Joe Sheets, presided over the business session. Devotions entitled "A New Year's Prayer" were presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers who also led members in repeating the "Lord's Prayer."

Roll call was answered by the 22 members present telling how many evergreens they have in their yards.

Mrs. Clark McCafferty reported on the fall regional meeting held in Lancaster. She said there were 16 Monrovia Garden Club representatives at the meeting.

Mrs. Herman Porter presented Mrs. Sheets with the Therapy Award the club received for first place in the state this past year. Second place was won for publicity and third for the program books in Region 9.

A note of appreciation was read from Mrs. Bernard Savy for entries at the Council of Pickaway County Flower Show for Christmas at the Historical Society Museum in Circleville. A card of thanks was read from Twila Leist for participation in the Flower Show at the Pumpkin Show.

Mrs. Sheets told of the latest therapy program held at Orient State School when turkey centerpieces were made for Thanksgiving. She also announced that the students are making program books for each therapy session. The next program at the school will be Jan. 6 with Mrs. Loring Stoer and Mrs. Sheets as chairmen. The topic will be "Our Feathered Friends." Several members volunteered to assist.

Mrs. Allen Follrod reported on the Christmas Tour to view the lights and Christmas decorations followed with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Bruce Cochran.

Mrs. Clyde Michel reported on the Stock Sale Dinner held last month and announced that another one was planned for April. Mrs. Herman Porter thanked members for their generous donations and assistance.

Mrs. Charles Fleming conducted the program. She exhibited branches of 18 varieties of evergreens and shrubs from her lawn to be identified. Mrs. Allen Follrod received a prize for naming the greatest number. Mrs. Joe Sheets placed second and Mrs. Loring Stoer, third. Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Harry Smith tied for fourth place.

At the close of the meeting refreshments in the New Year theme were served by hostesses Mrs. Clyde Michel, Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Ann Thomas.

The February meeting will be held in the Five Points United Methodist Church social room with Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Donald Horney, Mrs. Clark McCafferty and Mrs. Lloyd Neff as hostesses. The meeting will feature a workshop with K. B. Towler as instructor and will be entitled "Homes And Feeders For Birds." Members are to bring materials to build homes or feeders. The session will begin at 8 p.m. and all members are urged to attend.

Daytonian Booked For 'Terrorism'

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An 80-year-old Dayton man has been booked on two charges following an incident in which female neighbors of his told police he was "terrifying" them.

Levy Ford, arrested Monday, was charged Tuesday with shooting with intent to kill an assault with a deadly weapon. He was shot—not seriously—and arrested during a shootout when police responded to the woman's residence here.

Too Optimistic

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state will cut spending this fiscal year by $4 million to stay within its budget. Officials said the earlier financial outlook was a bit too optimistic, and now the total available for spending is $553 million.

2,000-YEAR-OLD CRUCIFIXION UNEARTHED—The skeleton of a man crucified about 2,000 years ago has been unearthed by Israeli scholars in a cave near Jerusalem. An artist's reconstruction (above) depicts what the man might have looked like and the method of crucifixion. The method was even more painful than the one depicted by history in which the victim's outstretched arms were nailed to the crossbar through the palms of the hands, and the feet held by nails through the top of the foot. "It cannot be Christ," said Dr. Avraham Biran, "for the man's name, Yehohanan, was chiseled into his Ossuary (tomb)." (Cablephoto)

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Reader Comments On Mercy Killings

DEAR ABBY: In all that I have read concerning the subject of "mercy killing" I have yet to find what seems to me to be the most obvious answer.

Are not all those who are lying sick and helpless in their old age atoning for their past sins, and thus meriting heaven when they die and by the same token, are not those caring for the sick ones (especially their relatives) securing for themselves a place in heaven?

And regarding putting suffering animals out of their misery, how can one compare humans to animals? An animal has no soul, and for an animal, death is final. However, humans do have souls, and the way we meet and bear up under life's trials and difficulties (especially incurable illnesses) will decide our fate in the hereafter. People today try to deny the fact of heaven and hell, and thus we've strayed so far from the basic truths.

SANTA ANA
DEAR SANTA: You have a right to your opinion, but I couldn't disagree with you more! Come "Judgment Day," I believe we will be judged not on how we suffered and died, but how we have treated our fellow men and lived.

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on a letter written by the parents of a 19-year-old boy who wants to marry a girl who has had spinal surgery and is now an "invalid?"

Just who is the "invalid" in this case? Since when does a physical disability devalue or eliminate all other mental and emotional capabilities?

Those parents, perhaps out of lack of understanding, are snobs. Their son shows more promise as a considerate human being than they do.

My seventh child was born three months after I was paralyzed from the waist down. (I suffered a spinal cord injury.) The rest of my life will be spent in a wheelchair. I have no bladder or bowel control and I am never without pain. My physical sex life is dead. My age is 46.

I am one of the luckier ones. Quadraplegics have a greater hell to live with. What is most difficult for me to endure is not my physical disabilities, but those who insist on judging me not on what I have but on what I have left. Give me reevaluation, not pity.

I head my own household, have taken a foster son, drive my own car, do my own cleaning, cooking and shopping, and am going to college full-time. I go regularly to the VA hospital to visit the spinal cord ward, which is an oasis of the true meaning of life's real value in

North Viets Could Launch Small Tet Drive, Report

Mail Is Faster Than One Method

LAKE BLUFF, Ill. (AP) — Monica Donnelly, 11, had all but given up getting an answer to her balloon-launched note.

The note, carried by three balloons, was kept dry in a plastic bag. It asked that whoever found it write back to her and send a picture of himself.

Then she received an answer from a seven-year-old boy, Clinton King of Hartford, Mich. He included a photo of himself.

"I found this note while hunting with my father," his letter said. "P.S. My mother wrote this note for me."

Monica saved the cost of a stamp and a trip to the mailbox with her system, but she does not believe it will ever replace the United States Post Office.

"You never know where the note's going to land," she said. "But that's the fun of it."

new but relatively small Tet offensive in Cambodia.

This interpretation of intelligence reports is basically the same offered by White House and Pentagon officials.

But the State Department analysts went a step further, predicting it may be necessary for South Vietnamese troops to move into Cambodia to help stem the tide. They expect the next two or three months will test fully the Cambodian army's ability to resist the North Vietnamese.

Commented one ranking official:

"We think North Vietnam is conducting an intensive effort to push supplies down to Cambodia and Vietnam, but there is nothing near to the amount required for a major offensive. Their problem is to get the supplies moved down and then come in ahead of the rains. They will have to do this no later than March or early April."

This means enemy supplies would have to be moved to concentration points this month or next.

All operations observed thus far indicate the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong are running far behind the schedule used in preparing for the Tet offensive in 1968, when 250,000 men were sent down from North Vietnam, U.S. officials noted.

In 1969 some 115,000 men were moved southward primarily as replacements. There was no real Tet offensive in 1970.

White House officials recently estimated the infiltration rate is running 30 per cent ahead of last year, but still is far below the 1968-69 level.

U.S. authorities say the North Vietnamese are sticking to tactics that employ small units in protracted guerrilla warfare, rather than the large units of several years ago.

Gilligan To Follow Custom At Inaugural Ceremonies

8 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Jan. 6, 1971
Circleville, Ohio

When the 62nd governor of Ohio, John J. Gilligan, is sworn into office Jan. 11, he will continue the custom of taking his oath on the west steps of the statehouse — a practice that has not always been blessed with agreeable weather, according to an Ohio Historical Society survey of inaugural ceremonies.

Some of his hardy forebears in the office suffered through stinging gales, near zero temperatures, and frigid water dripping on bare heads; other governors found it more comfortable to be inaugurated indoors, usually in the statehouse rotunda.

Gilligan's distinguished predecessors have — at various inaugurations — begun the day with church services; eaten their way through breakfasts, luncheons, and suppers; been entertained by band concerts, impressive parades, fireworks, and a "gorgeous historical pageant," and shaken thousands of hands at public receptions, the Historical Society reports.

Elaborate inaugural events with festive entertainment, lavish decorations, and imposing ceremonies have been frequent during the past 90 years, though early Ohio governors were sworn in with a minimum of pomp.

When Edward Tiffin was notified by the General Assembly on March 3, 1803, that the just-counted ballots revealed that he had been elected the state's first governor, he immediately replied "that he would meet the two houses in the representatives' chamber, this day, at one o'clock" to take the oath; his inaugural message consisted of only 197 words.

The first inaugural to be held in the statehouse rotunda was that of William Dennison, Jan. 10, 1860. Salvoes from cannon in the statehouse yard announced the event, "much to the detriment of the Neil House windows" across the street.

More festivity attended the inauguration of Charles Foster in 1880 when over 1,500 military men participated in a huge parade. Special trains brought thousands of spectators. Impressive decorations brightened the city hall for a ball. "There is a lively flutter in society circles over the brilliancy that is expected to this great occasion," reported a Columbus paper.

When James Campbell was inaugurated in 1930, so many people were in the city that they "vibrated back and forth in and out of the Capitol." Apparently no podium was available on the east terrace of the statehouse because Campbell mounted a chair to present his address. After attending the parade, which included 3,000 marchers and 33 bands, the governor greeted "nearly every one prominent in business and public circles" at a reception in the senate chamber.

About 50,000 excursionists came by train, interurban, and farm wagon for Myron Herrick's inaugural in 1904. It was necessary to improvise the gubernatorial commission because the ornately inscribed official documents could not be found. That evening at the ball, Mrs. Herrick wore a corsage of a new type of violet named the "Gov. Herrick" by its originator.

A blinding snowstorm at Judson Harmon's inauguration in 1909 "dampened the ardor of the (parade) marchers and spectators." At the inaugural ball, "a sumptuous affair," some of the 3,000 dancers in splendid attire faced a handicap because "most of the officers wore their side arms, and in the crowds on the floor this added to the difficulty of dancing for the civilians."

George White was honored by having two newborn babies named for him on his inaugural day in 1931. He began his official duties at 5 p.m. that day by signing extradition papers although he was almost unable to grasp the pen after clasping the hands of 2,000 persons at the afternoon reception. Appropriate ceremonies and flourishes will attend the inauguration of Governor-elect Gilligan on Jan. 11, from the swearing in at 11 a.m., through a gala entertainment at 2:30 p.m., a reception and dinner at 6 p.m., and a ball at 9 p.m. Sore hands and hoarse throats are sure to be forgotten in the excitement of the event, the Historical Society predicts.

Court Clears Docket Of Wilson Case

New Year's clearing in the county Court of the Common Pleas led to dismissal of five divorce actions, an easement suit filed by the Village of Ashville, three appeals and money suit filed by Darbydale police chief Thomas Wilson, who was involved in the stray dog episode in Darby Twp. All were dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Wilson filed the suit in March, 1970 after township trustees James Musselman, Maxwell Graham and Derrell Furniss filed charges against the police officer for dumping two stray dogs in Darby Twp.

One week after filing the money suit in which he asked $95,000 in damages to his character and reputation, Wilson was found guilty of the charge in the Circleville Municipal Court. Judge Sterling Lamb imposed a $50 fine but payment was deferred pending appeal to a higher court.

The three appeals filed by Roy C. Hagar of Williamsport, were based upon three injuries he reportedly received while employed by the local DuPont plant. They occurred in 1967 and 1966.

In the suit filed by Ashville and dismissed Monday for lack of prosecution, the village fathers had sought permanent easement rights along properties owned by the Norfolk and Western Railway Co., Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co. and Chester and Janice Gloyd. The easements were wanted for the installation of a sanitary sewer line in that area.

Gunship Pilot Scared, But Likes His Job

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — There's always that tight feeling in the gut when a man flies a helicopter gunship near the "Zee," the demilitarized zone that divides the two Vietnams.

Scared? "If I said no I'd be lying," grins Capt. Robert Barthelmess. "This is where the war is, bad guy country, 12 miles below the pink line. Anything that isn't ours is theirs. You try to kill it."

The yawning canopy well comes his socky frame as he prepares to take off. Rotors crown, then snarl as the Cobra helicopter trembles and comes to life. The ground recedes. Airborne in an olive green death machine and Barthelmess feels better.

A noseful of guns, rocket pods under his armpits and only 42 inches wide, "which doesn't give Charlie a lot to shoot at."

Once Barthelmess was a cabi e-maker in Vallejo, Calif. The U.S. Army invested $500,000 to make him a Cobra jockey, a killer. Now he has to decide whether to zap Charlie with 20mm cannon or 40mm grenades, spray him with 4,000 rounds a minute from his 7.62mm minigun, or "frag" him with rockets containing 2,500 deadly 1½-inch nails.

One error in judgment or one well-placed enemy bullet and the Cobra could become $451,000 worth of scrap metal on the green hills below.

The mission is simple—two Cobra gunships to fly cover for a light observation helicopter (LOH) and a larger Huey chopper carrying a seven-man aero rifle platoon into enemy territory across the Thach Han River. The Huey will insert the rifle men and extract six tired grunts who've been humping the bush for two days.

Only 12 miles south of the demilitarized zone, the destination is crawling with North Vietnamese regulars. Gunships reported seven "kills" there the previous week.

Barthelmess is high gun, about 200 feet above the Huey. The LOH scouts at treetop level, covered by the other protective Cobra. Chatter becomes more brisk as the river snakes into view.

"LZ at 9 o'clock. Looks like a good one."
"No sign of bad guys."

Vails Given

Commutation Of Sentence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The death sentence of Ellis Vails has been commuted to life imprisonment by outgoing Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

John McElroy Rhodes' chief aide, gave no reason Monday for the commutation. The governor could not be reached for comment.

McElroy said the action was taken Dec. 7 a week after the governor granted Vails a reprieve until Jan. 8 to allow his attorney to seek a commutation from the Ohio Parole Board.

Vails, 43, was convicted in Hamilton County for the October 1968 slayings of Beatrice Thomas, 49, and her mother, Maria Simpson, 69, both of Cincinnati.

EARLY silver coins of the Federal Republic (replacing mintage of individual Colonies and Spanish dollars or pieces-of-eight) had a visage of Martha Washington. President Washington protested this aspect of royal custom and a design alteration was effected [1].

First postage portrait was Queen Isabella for a Columbian Exposition commemorative 5c stamp, 1893. Nine years later, Martha Washington was belatedly the first American woman pictured on postage. A portrait by Gilbert Stuart she had approved was used.

The LOH darts over a grassy knoll a smoke flare marks the landing zone and Barthelmess' wingman makes a fast flyover. The Huey follows, dropping the rifle men and evacuating the grime-covered men on the ground. As they climb aboard, Barthelmess goes into a screaming 80-degree dive right above their heads to distract any hostile gunners.

But he draws no fire, the Huey lifts off and the choppers turn homeward. The blackened faces of the grunts split in white grins as the Cobra pulls near the Huey and Barthelmess flip a "V" sign.

The birds roll into Quant Tri. Troop C, 3rd Squadron, 17th Air

Cavalry, has chalked up another mission. They straggle off to their hooches for lunch as ground crews refuel.

"A good one," says Barthelmess. "Strictly routine. They're not always that easy."

When the weather is good

Barthelmess flies 8 to 10 hours a day. He averages two enemy contacts a week.

Barthelmess was shot down once in 1967, over the central highlands. Knicked in the leg and with an injured gunner and a dead engine, he auto-rotated onto a sandpit in a river. A Huey gunship pulled him out within 30 minutes.

"It's a lonely feeling down there. That's why I wear this." He pats the .38-caliber revolver on his hip. "The war was really hot then. I lost six to eight good friends. But there's no use worrying about it happening to you. I figure when it's your time to go that's it, whether you're here or back home on a freeway." What does a gung-ho chopper pilot do when the war ends?

"I like what I'm doing. I like my bird. The Army has invested a lot of money in me. It's been good to me and I'm going to stay in uniform as long as I have flight status."

Lukens Chosen By Caucus To Fill State Senate Seat

Curci Said Likely Top Brown Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Curci, 31, an assistant prosecutor in Lorain County, served as Brown's campaign manager in that county. He and Brown were classmates at Ohio Northern University in Ada.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Former Congressman Donald E. "Buz" Lukens was chosen by a Republican party caucus Tuesday to fill the 34th Senate District seat vacated by Walter E. Powell of Fairfield.

Lukens, a GOP conservative from Middletown, is scheduled to take the oath of office in the Senate chambers at 11 a.m. today.

post Monday to take a seat in Congress.

Lukens, 40, had the endorsements of all the county Republican organizations in the Fourth District, commonly a guarantee of appointment.

His appointment was announced after a secret ballot had been taken among caucusing Republicans. The results of the ballot were not disclosed, but official confirmation on the Senate floor by Republicans was unanimous.

The only other name to come under serious consideration was that of Barry Levey, an attorney, also of Middletown, who gained statewide prominence last summer as head of the House Judiciary Committee saddled with the task of presenting a campus riot bill to the full assembly before adjournment. Levey bowed out of the 39th District race in November, claiming a need to devote more time to his private law practice, but later privately expressed interest in a Senate appointment.

Much of Levey's backing came from legislators concerned over the possibility Lukens might use the appointment as a springboard to another gubernatorial bid in 1974. Lukens ran unsuccessfully for governor in the May 1970 Republican primary.

Other legislators felt uneasy about what they said they considered a potential conflict of interest between Lukens' management consulting firm and his government activities.

Lukens' company was formed to provide small and medium sized businesses with advice on how to deal with government bureaucracies.

Lukens will have two years to serve of Powell's four-year term.

Cincy Man Judged Sane; Faces Trial

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati man, judged mentally competent, will go on trial Jan. 18 in Butler County Common Pleas Court in the brutal slaying of a teen-aged girl.

The court ruled Tuesday that James Findley, 28, is sane but in another case, the court ordered Eugene Gall, 24, of Middletown committed to Lima State Hospital.

Findley is charged with first-degree murder in the death of Cheryl Segal, 16, of Cincinnati. Her mutilated body was found in a wooded area of Butler County on Oct. 18. Findley had entered pleas of not guilty, and not guilty by reason of insanity in the case.

Gall had entered similar pleas on charges of rape, abduction for immoral purposes, robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in connection with a series of offenses involving women in the Hamilton area in recent months.

In grand jury action Tuesday, Von Davis, 24, of Hamilton was indicted on a first-degree murder charge in the stabbing death last Wednesday of his estranged wife, Ernestine, 20.

A first-degree manslaughter indictment was returned against Paul Myers, 26, of Hamilton in the shooting death Dec. 22 of his brother, Jerry, 25, of Oxford.

Atomic Plant Fight Continues At Port Clinton

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A decision is to be announced today on whether further delays will be granted in a hearing on the proposed Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Station on Lake Erie west of Port Clinton.

Opponents of the proposed station asked Tuesday for a two-month delay to prepare their case.

Attorneys for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and the Toledo Edison Co., which are building the plant as a joint project, say the delays are costing the companies $1.4 million a month.

Attorney Jerome S. Kalur of Cleveland, representing Glenn Lau, a resident of the area near the proposed plant site, asked for a delay until March 8. Kalur said he was hired by Lau last week and has not had time to present his case.

Kroger Strike May End Soon

CINCINNATI (AP) — About 850 members of Retail Workers Local 390 vote today on a new contract proposal that could end their strike against Kroger Co. plants here and in suburban Springfield.

A tentative agreement was hammered out Tuesday but its details were not released. The employees went on strike early Monday.

The plants make Kroger brand candies, roasted coffee, jellies and other products.

When Buying CHICKENS - Select By CLASS!

The grade of poultry does not indicate how tender the bird is. Grade "A" on our chickens means that they are of highest quality, fully fleshed and meaty, well finished, attractive in appearance. Tenderness is determined by age (class) of the chicken. Young tender meat classes are most suitable for barbecuing, frying, broiling or roasting. Young chickens may be labeled young chicken, Rock Cornish game hen, broiler, fryer, roaster, or capon. Mature, less-tender meat classes may be preferred for stewing, baking, soups or salads. Mature chickens may be labeled mature chicken, hen, stewing chicken or fowl.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The monthly competition between NBC's "First Tuesday" and CBS's Tuesday night news hour, "60 minutes" is strictly for prestige.

They rank 80th and 81st in a list of 81 programs of the December Nielsen ratings, however each gives its network a program to brag about.

"First Tuesday," which starts an hour ahead of "60 Minutes," kicked off its January program with a feature on home security. A police expert talked about locks, a suburban police chief talks about alarm systems. The most interesting portion was the tour of a residential neighborhood with a convicted woman burglar who described the techniques of breaking and entering.

This was followed by a rather horrifying short feature showing 7- and 8-year-old children careening around a track on gasoline-powered mini-motorcycles egged on by parents.

The big feature of the first hour was a report on "The Children of God," a group of young Americans in an intense religious revival outside organized churches.

Many of the men and women living in the sect's commune came to their literal interpretation of the Bible after experiences with drugs. There were interviews with members and film of their community life. The segment, while interesting, was overlong and loosely edited.

"Sixty Minutes" also led from strength: a piece on Federico Fellini, the Italian film director, as he was making "The Clowns."

Fellini narrated much of the segment, talking of his interests and style. It was a portrait of a man at work and at home, a glimpse behind the scenes of Italian movie-making—plus a short tour of Rome.

The most important portion was a report on some mortgage loans by the Federal Housing Administration under a section of law which Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., declared "is not working, is greatly abused and undoubtedly contains many scandals."

CBS cameras showed FHA-mortgaged housing developments in Missouri and the State of Washington which are less than a year old, but are crumbling. It showed older houses in Eastern cities which were bought cheap and sold a short time later for many times the purchase price—and mortgaged by FHA.

A pilot film, "Alias Smith and Jones," was ABC's "Movie of the Week" Tuesday, a sort of appetizer for the series spun off it which will premiere later this month.

It is a good-humored treatment of a couple of engaging but bumbling outlaws of the Old West who are attempting to go straight. It might provide a weekly hour of mild amusement.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

A mass of cold air is expected over Ohio Thursday.

Mostly clear skies are forecast for the state but there is a chance of snow flurries northeast near Lake Erie.

Temperatures early today dropped to 6 degrees at Toledo and ranged to the teens along the Ohio River.

Temperatures tonight are forecast from 5 above to 5 below in the north to around 10 above along the Ohio River.

Not much change appears likely for Thursday with fair skies and high temperatures again in the teens and low 20s.

Highway Chief Sees Urban Problems Worst

By JEFF PRICE
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's next highway director says he looks on the ground traffic arteries as a "strong backbone" on which to build an expanded transportation system.

J. Phillip Richley, named by Gov. elect John J. Gilligan to head the department of highways, looks for expansion in mass transportation air travel, and perhaps transit on waterways.

"I believe that we will never be able to handle the traffic," Richley said in an interview.

"In spite of all the highway construction in the past few years, urban areas still have problems."

Richley, presently Mahoning County engineer proposed a two-fold solution to urban congestion. His plan calls for integration of highway and mass transportation systems, coupled with an active role by the state in planning, developing and financing the interconnected network.

Richley said the state is already a partner with local and federal governments in highways, but not in the mass transit.

AND SOUTHEAST — Mostly clear and cold through Thursday. High Thursday in the upper teens and low 20s. Low tonight zero to 10 above.

"The State of Ohio could be much more useful in aiding urban areas," he said. "This is an area where there is a void in state government."

Richley explained that the state would continue to expand highway facilities, competing the Interstate system and urban roads construction, but would also broaden the highway department to include mass transit, air and waterways.

He said he was talking about "interconnections of systems to supplement highways."

Richley cited Cleveland Hopkins Airport with its rapid transit service downtown as an example of an interconnected system to relieve highway congestion.

As an example of poor planning, he pointed to Dulles International Airport, 30 miles outside Washington D.C., connected only by highways. As a result, Richley said, National Airport, near downtown Washington, is still preferred to the more modern Dulles.

Implementation of the plan, Richley said, "would depend on existing federal programs operated through the Department of Transportation, existing federal grant-in-aid programs, and state agencies formed to aid local communities."

He said his program may encounter opposition from "those persons who would misconstrue what we're saying and think we mean highways are things of the past."

"We won't divert any highway funds nor reduce mileage," Richley said. "We think highways will be most important and viable for a long, long time."

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times.

There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value.

At Chevrolet, we understand. You want meaningful change. You want improvements that are not just skin-deep, but deep-seated.

And one of those, among the many that you'll find in the 1971 Chevrolets, is new emission controls to help bring back clean air. In every new model, we've made further substantial reductions in both the discharge of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

All 1971 Chevrolet engines run efficiently on the new no-lead or low-lead gasolines, too, which not only decreases air pollution but increases the life of your spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.

Bigness in itself is nothing. But if it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride.

The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure for 1971, too. We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy ever. It wasn't changed from anything.

Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.

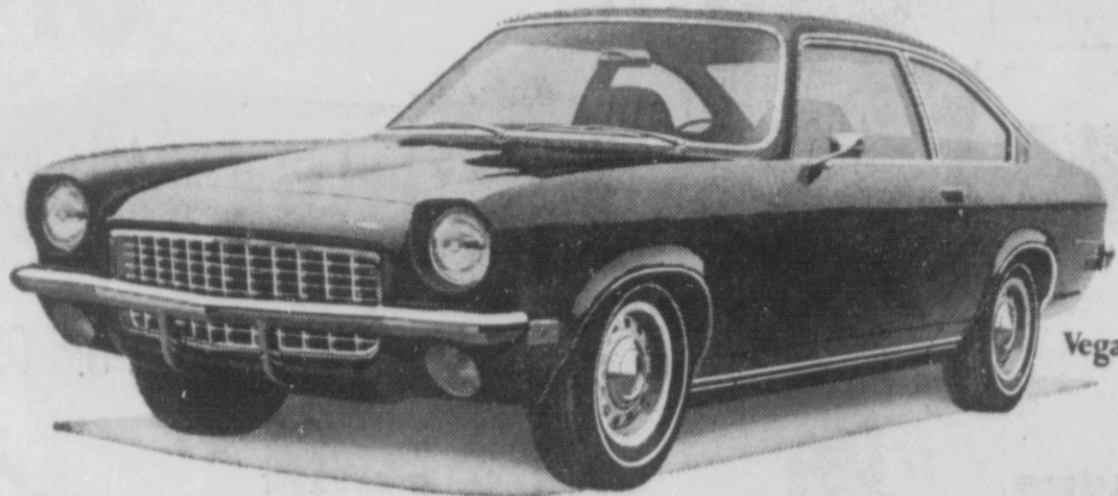

What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind.

In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

Rotate Tires

NEW YORK (AP) — Tires should be rotated every 5000 miles for maximum wear. Rotating the tires lets them wear evenly, according to a report from Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation.

HAIR TODAY, gone to the Army tomorrow is the story of John Baugh, 26, as wife Pat admires his long locks in Boise, Idaho. His National Guard time would have been up on Feb. 16, but it was learned he was concealing his long hair under a wig, and he was ordered to active duty. Then the Army gave him a 10-day reprieve for "every chance to present evidence that might have been overlooked." Baugh is a folk singer and says he needs the long hair.

Irregularity
In School
Funds Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting office, watchdog for Congressional appropriations, claims that Cincinnati public schools officials inadvertently attempted to use $100,000 in certain federal funds. The GAO said that the money was part of the Title I program of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 and was marked for aid to educationally deprived children in Ohio. The school system charged about $100,000 to the Title I program for unused sick leave which had accrued to agency employees working in the program, the GAO contended. Carl Heimerdinger, clerk-treasurer for the school system, said the figure under contention should be $39,000, not $100,000. "We held the money (in 1966) as a contingency for sick leave should the federal program terminate," Heimerdinger said, "but it did not terminate... this was liability which did not develop." He said that the money reverted to the federal government. "However, the federal government reverted the money back to us, saying they had no right to recover the funds," Heimerdinger continued. The GAO said it regards the incident as an "apparent misunderstanding" by the school officials.

Kingston News Report

Mrs. Harry Sims returned home Wednesday after spending the holidays in Portsmouth with her sisters, Mrs. M. E. Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stepp and Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Maynard. They were joined there by their brother, Mr. A. L. Harris of Chatteroy, W. Va.

J. P. Hampf celebrated his sixth birthday Dec. 30 at a party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hampf at their home on Main Street. The guests were nineteen of his fellow classmates and games and contests with prizes being awarded preceded refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch that were served by J. P.'s grandmother, Mrs. Paul Kerns, his cousin, Mrs. Tom DeBord and his aunt, Mrs. David Adams.

Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Carter were their daughter, Mrs. Robert Fetherolf and children, Tammy and Brent, of Circleville.

Mrs. Jessie Blain returned home Sunday after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Randall at their home in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Search celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on New Year's Eve with their three sons, Charles and James of Kingston and Harry of Columbus, their families and a few close friends present. Mr. Search and the former Ada Hickie were married on December 31, 1910 in the United Brethren Church in Hallsville. They have twelve grandchildren and ten great grandchildren. All were present but three of the grandchildren, James Search of Columbus who was in California for the Rose Bowl game, Mrs. James Lewis and her family of Toledo and Lt. Michael Search, his wife and son of Plattsburg, New York, who talked to his grandparents by phone during the evening.

Cooper Backs Gilligan Plan To Split Cabinet Department

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Corrections Commissioner Bennett J. Cooper says he supports Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan's plan to split the Department of Mental Hygiene and Corrections into two departments.

Gilligan disclosed the separation plan in connection with an announcement that Cooper had agreed to stay on as corrections commissinr under the new Democratic administration.

Gilligan said there was no relation between the mental hygiene and correction divisions of the existing department.

"Both activities would be better served by separate departments," he said.

Separating the divisions would draw public attention to corrections problems, Gilligan added, and "give corrections the importance it should have in our state scheme of government."

Gilligan said he would name a director of the mental hygiene division and would leave the mental hygiene and corrections post vacant until the legislature acts on the separation proposal.

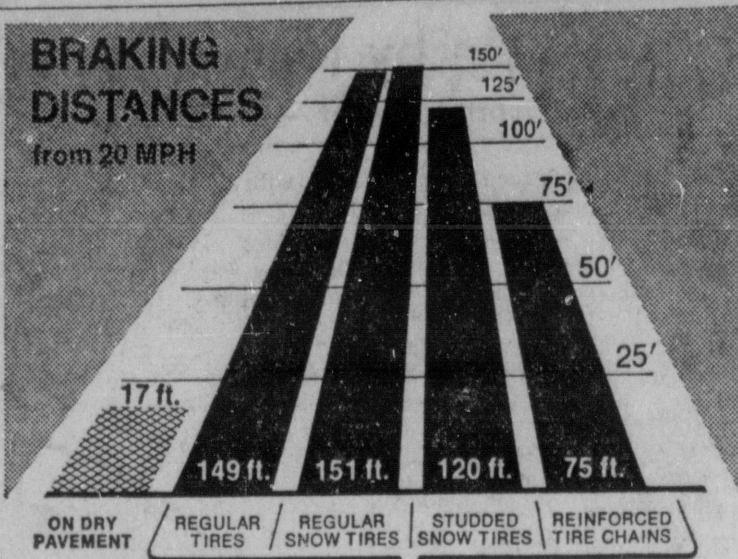

Cooper said he plans to stress rehabilitation and training in Ohio's prisons. The division's biggest need at the moment, he said, is more money to draw more competent staffs.

Cooper, 49, has served in the division of corrections since 1957. He was superintendent of the Mansfield Reformatory before being named to succeed Maury Koblentz as commissioner last August. The appointment made him the highest ranking black in the American penal system.

A native of Cleveland, he holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Case Western Reserve University and has completed course work toward a doctorate.

Oil Found In Michigan

GAYLORD, Mich. (AP) — Oil has been found on property 12 miles southwest of here, but a determination on how good a producer the well might be will not be made until further tests are made.

Robert Acker of the geological survey division of the state Department of Natural Resources said the well was drilled to a depth of 6,685 feet.

"Potential indications are it could be a good producing well," he said. "That is about as far as you can go now."

The well is being drilled by Great Lakes Exploration of Mount Pleasant, Mich., and Tatum Wells Inc. of Marietta, Ohio.

The owner of the property, Glen Marshall of Fostoria, Ohio, said Great Lakes leased the mineral rights on the property from him and had been drilling for about four weeks.

He said it was the first time any one had expressed interest in searching for oil on the property.

Solons Ignore Rhodes Choice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Senate leaders apparently have decided to ignore Gov. James A. Rhodes' appointment of Waverly Glover to the Central State University board of trustees.

Sources said a vote scheduled Tuesday on confirmation was sidetracked after leaders learned of substantial bipartisan opposition to the appointment.

Failure of the Senate to act would leave the seat open until Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan makes an appointment and it is confirmed by the Senate.

Blight-Resistant Corn Crop Harvest Sent To Midwest

HONOLULU (AP) — The harvest of 1,100 acres of blight-resistant hybrid seed corn soon will be en route from Hawaii to the Midwestern corn belt to help combat a destructive leaf blight which swept mainland crops last year.

The seed corn is being cultivated on Hawaii's "Garden Isle," Kauai, by Metcalf Farm for the Pride Seed Co. of Glenn Haven, Wis., and four other firms which supply 25 to 30 per cent of the nation's seed corn each year.

Damage from Southern corn blight was blamed by the Department of Agriculture for a decline in the nation's corn production last year of an estimated 14.7 per cent from an anticipated yield of 4.8 million bushels. It was the smallest crop in four years.

"It's sure going to help, getting this winter crop to the mainland in time for spring planting," Harold Barr, office manager of Metcalf Farm's operations on Kauai, said Tuesday.

"Here we are harvesting a crop and on the mainland the fields are covered with snow," He said the hybrid seed has been tested and is "100 per cent effective" in resisting corn blight.

Richard Metcalf, owner of Metcalf Farms and president of Pride Seed flew some 15,000 pounds of blight-resistant corn seed to Hawaii last August along with 90,000 pounds of machinery.

Metcalf leased 400 acres of sugar cane land in the Waimea Valley on Kauai, 100 miles northwest of Honolulu, from Kilauea Sugar Co., and expanded the project as more land became available from Kilauea Sugar, which is phasing out its sugar cane operations.

Barr said 4,500 acres may be available soon and Metcalf Farms plans to cultivate some of that.

Barr said Metcalf's plans of growing the corn year-around still hold.

"We should be finished harvesting by the end of the month and start planting the middle of next month again."

Brown Takes Oath On Monday Morning

State Sues For Village

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Ohio Attorney general's office has sued four companies and 10 persons for a total of $11.4 million it claims is owed to the suburban village of Greenhills and its citizens.

Special counsel for the office filed the suit Tuesday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

The suit contends that since 1953, development of land where much of Greenhills is located has produced illegal profits for the defendants.

The suit says that one of the defendants, now known as Fienco Inc., purchased 750 acres of land from the government for $3.5 million under terms of a law requiring the purchaser to act as "trustee of the real estate for the benefit of the citizens and Village of Greenhills."

The litigation says that although Fienco, originally established as the Greenhills Home Owners Corp., was set up as a non-profit organization, it became a "corporation for profit in violation of the terms of the public trust" in 1953.

Seek Venue Shift For Davis Trial

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — The defense for black militant Angela Davis says it will move to have her trial held away from the Marin County courthouse where four men died in an escape attempt she is accused of helping to plot.

Howard Moore Jr. of Atlanta, head of the five-lawyer defense team handling the former UCLA philosophy instructor's case, said Tuesday in an interview that he will try to have the trial held either across the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco or in Los Angeles.

In those cities, Moore said, she would have the best opportunity to be tried "by a jury of her peers."

Moore and the other defense attorneys appeared with Miss Davis Tuesday as a continuation of her arraignment on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy.

During the one-hour court session, Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, read a prepared statement declaring she is innocent and the target of "a political frameup."

She said, "I want to declare publicly before the court and the people of this country that I am innocent of all charges brought against me by the State of California."

Miss Davis is charged with furnishing four guns used in the escape attempt last Aug. 7 in which a judge, two convicts and a youth who brought weapons into court were killed.

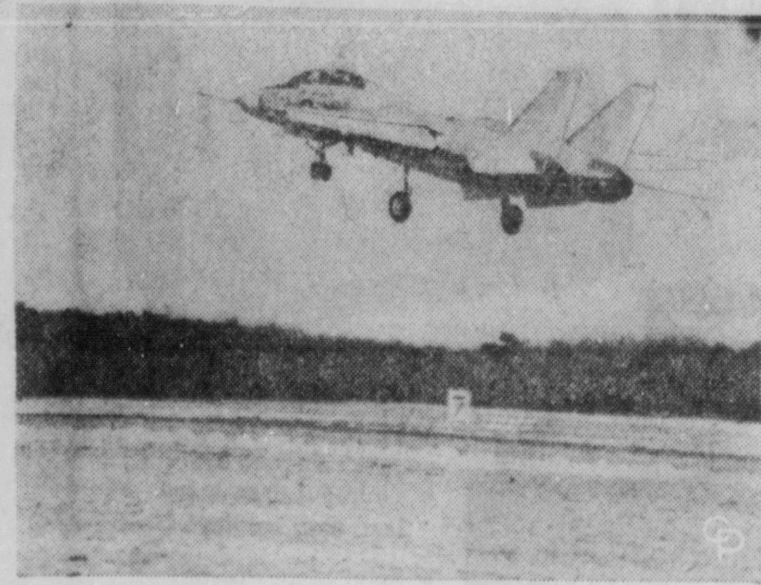

Her fellow defendant, San Quentin convict Ruchel Magee, 31, was removed from the hearing as he shouted defiantly at Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson.

Magee who survived the escape try, protested that he wanted to represent himself rather than have a court-appointed attorney.

He had been shackled hand and foot to a chair bolted to the floor, in view of repeated outbursts during several previous pretrial court sessions held behind San Quentin prison walls.

Miss Davis, clad in a navy blue miniskirt and matching blouse and with her hair in Afro style, sat across the room in the jury box with her five attorneys.

As she entered the heavily guarded courtroom, she smiled and raised a clenched fist in a Black Power salute. Some of the 67 spectators in the modern windowless courtroom shouted: "Right on!"

What Every Kid Knew In 1786

By RAY BARTH
Central Press Association
Correspondent

BRODHEAD, Wis. — The notion that school was a lot easier in the old days when they had only the Three Rs must be one that every succeeding generation has spread, but it's wrong.

Look at a 1786 textbook for boys printed at Worcester, Mass., and be glad you don't have to memorize:

"A dicker of hides is 10 skins, a chaldron of coals 36 bushels, a hoghead of beer 54 gallons, a weight of cheese 256 pounds, an acre of land 160 square poles, a load of bricks 500, a stone of fish 8 pounds, a truss of hay 56 pounds and a load of hay 29 trusses."

However, on the other hand, our fore-fathers didn't have to memorize the names of the U.S. Presidents (we didn't have one in 1786) nor the 50 state capitals.

Money then was valued by weight as well as denomination, and coins in circulation in these new United States included the Portuguese moidore, weighing in at 16 pennyweight, 18 grains, along with English and French crowns, the Johannes of Portugal and the four-pistole piece. Modern generations know the pistole as the Spanish doubloon.

And how about keeping these playthings in your head way back then: "Items of wholesale trade bought and sold in the 1000s are cattle bones, chair nails, tacks and tenter hooks, pomegranates and tazel goose quills and thimbles, clinkers, billets and leaves of horn, squirrel skins, slate and hilling stones."

For lessons in writing there were these cheerful maxims to be copied again and again: "All lazy boys obstruct their parents' joys . . . By idleness and play, youth squanders time away . . ."

"Drinking is the drowning of cares, not the cure of them . . . One vice is more expensive than 10 virtues . . . Provide against the worst and hope for the best . . . Repent today, tomorrow may be too late."

Young scholars of the 18th century were instructed in "vulgar fractions" (vulgar meant common), long measure (3 barley corns equal 1 inch), ale and beer measure ("in a barrel of ale are 2 kilderkins, 4 firkins, 32 gallons, 64 bottles, 128 quarts, 256 pints") and how to address a mayor ("Sir, if it please your worship").

The now brown and careworn book titled "The Instructor of American Young Men's Best Companion," has been in the family of Roger Patterson of Brodhead, Wis., almost from the day it came off Isaiah Thomas' press in the year MDCCCLXXVI.

That was another thing Revolutionary kids had to learn — Roman numerals. O.K., you sharp kids, can you translate MDCCCLXXVI into modern numerals?

British Government Urged To Move Against Smoking

LONDON (AP) — The British government came under strong pressure today to act against cigarettes after the Royal College of Physicians reported at smoking kills more than 27,000 Britons a year.

Some sources predicted that within weeks the government would follow the United States' lead and order health warnings printed on cigarette packs. Further restrictions on advertising —cigarette commercials are already banned from television—were considered inevitable.

"The government must now take prompt action to see that effective preventative measures to discourage cigarette smoking are taken," the Guardian said in an editorial. Most other newspapers agreed and several urged curbs on advertising, although newspapers would be hit hardest.

The Daily Telegraph warned against a "monster horror blitz" against smoking, however, and asked: "Is it the duty of the government to terrify its subjects?"

"It can inform, warn, exhort and set an example," the newspaper said. "In restricting and prohibiting it should move cautiously."

The report from the Royal College of Physicians, one of Britain's leading medical bodies, said lung cancer was the biggest killer of cigarette smokers, but thousands die each year of bronchitis or coronary affections.

"The chances are that two out of five heavy cigarette smokers—25 or more a day—out only one out of five nonsmokers, will die before the age of 65," it said. "The man of 35 who is an average cigarette smoker—15 to 24 a day—is likely on average to lose 5½ years of life compared with a nonsmoker."

If nothing is done about the problem, it said smoking could kill 50,000 Britons a year by the 1980s.

The report called for warning notices on cigarette packs, a total ban on cigarette advertising, enforcement of smoking restrictions in public places, wider curbs on smoking at work, removal of cigarette vending machines from public places and laws limiting nicotine and tar content of cigarettes.

Recent Changes In Election Laws Pertinent To Voters

Three recent changes in the election laws have a direct bearing on the right of Ohio's citizens to qualify as voters.

The first of these changes is the result of a recent amendment to the Ohio Constitution, approved by the voters in the November 1970 general election.

This amendment reduces the residency requirement for becoming eligible to vote from one year's residence in the state to six months' residence in the state. As a result of this change persons who will have lived in Ohio for six months and in the county and precinct in which they wish to vote for a period of 40 days at the time of the election may now become qualified as voters.

The second and third changes are the result of a recent law passed by the United States Congress and partially upheld by the United States Supreme Court in a case decided December 21, 1970.

Federal law now provides that persons 18 years of age or over who are otherwise qualified to vote may now vote for candidates for federal offices including United States House of Representatives, United States Senate and President and Vice-President of the United States.

Persons 18 years of age but not yet 21 years of age are not, however, qualified to vote for non-federal offices.

In addition, Congress has extended the right to vote for the offices of President and Vice-President only to persons who shall have been residents of the state for a period of 30 days or more prior to the time of the presidential election.

It should be emphasized that the first election at which the newly enfranchised electors may cast their ballot will not be held until 1972. At the present time boards of elections in counties where voter registration is required have not yet been authorized to register persons who will not be 21 years of age at the time of the next general election.

After the November, 1971 General Election, procedures will be provided to implement the registration of 18, 19 and 20 year old voters in counties where registration is required and to provide for the actual casting of the new voters' ballots on election day.

Family Pictures Set Cincy Records

CINCINNATI (AP) —Three Cincinnati area movie theaters set house attendance records last week. They showed general audience features, not X-rated pictures.

The operators of the Marimont and Hollywood theaters said Tuesday that they broke their records with Walt Disney's "The Aristocats," and the operator of the Carousel said "Song of Norway" was shown there.

County Cagers
In Big Battles

All three county schools will swing back into action this week with Teays Valley seeing double duty and Westfall and Teays Valley meeting in a big county battle Friday night.

Teays Valley will be seeking its second win of the season when they host Metropolitan League rival Dublin Friday and travel to Oentangy Saturday in another Metro League clash.

The Vikings stand 1-7 for the season and have been unable to win the close games, losing five contests by less than five points a game.

Dublin will bring a 3-5 record into the fray and will send a hustling club against the Vikings. Varga is the big gun for the Dublin five and will have to be contained if the Blue and Gold are to emerge on the long end of the score.

SATURDAY'S affair at Oentangy should be a red hot affair with the Vikings out to gain revenge for the 68-66 loss handed them by Oentangy in their first confrontation.

Coach Bob Hoover will probably start Bob Tucker and Randy Nungester at the guards, Jack Brinker at center and Jeff Helsner and either Joe Lombardo or Don Makarius at the forwards. John Glick has been sidelined with a sprained ankle but may see some action.

There will be a real battle at Logan Elm Friday night when the Westfall Mustangs, 5-4, invade the reservation of the Braves, also 5-4, for another county rivalry battle.

Westfall will be out to gain some satisfaction for the 63-56 loss handed them by the Braves earlier in the season and the Logan Elm cagers will be out to prove it wasn't a fluke.

Coach Jeff Bigam reports his Mustangs are in good shape and ready to go. He will probably start Randy Alkire and Bruce Beatty at the guard spots, Larry Kempton at the center post and Jerry Williams and Larry Harris at the forwards.

John Valone will see plenty of action as the sixth man and Tom Cook, after a bout with pneumonia, has returned to school and is getting back into shape.

COACH Chuck Pritchard ran into some problems this week and has dropped four of his cagers from the Logan Elm squad for disciplinary reasons.

Junior Brad Barr, sidelined with a broken arm since football season, has returned to the squad and resumed practice.

Coach Pritchard will be hard at work this week and probably won't have a lineup until Friday night.

Top 4 Cage
Teams Steady
In AP Ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The top four teams in The Associated Press College Division basketball poll retained their positions Tuesday but Tennessee State took a big step up at Oral Roberts' expense.

Top-ranked Kentucky State, which outlasted Wesleyan 106-100 in a 100-point game, collected eight of 17 first place votes by the nationwide poll of sports writers and sports broadcasters and received a total of 284 points in the balloting.

No. 2 Southwest Louisiana, 10-0, which trailed the first-place Thorobreds by 39 points a week ago, received three top spot votes to close the gap to 22 with 262 points. Third-ranked LSU-New Orleans, also with three first-place votes, tallied 241 points and Stephen F. Austin, with one, totaled 197.

Tennessee State vaulted from 10th to fifth on the strength of its 89-55 romp over Oral Roberts last week. The Titans fell from eighth to 15th in the balloting.

Filling out the Top Ten were Ashland, which held onto its No. 6 post; Kentucky Wesleyan, up from 11th place; Louisiana Tech, up from 12th, and, in a tie for ninth place, Eau Claire, 15th a week ago, and Fairmont State, whose one first-place vote helped it climb up from 79th. The only other first-place vote went to No. 17 Central Washington.

Plans for the game will be proposed by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame on Saturday when the Extra Events Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association meets in Houston prior to next week's annual NCAA convention.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fran Tarkenton, quarterback of the New York Giants, will receive the Dick McCann Memorial Award Saturday as the National Football League Player of the Year at the 36th annual banquet of the Touchdown Club, it was announced today.

Tarkenton, who led the Giants to the first winning season since 1963, completed 219 of 389 pass attempts for 2,777 yards and 19 touchdowns.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Veterans' pitcher Bo Belinsky said Tuesday he is quitting baseball.

"There is a time when every player has to step down and I think this year's is the right time," the 34-year-old southpaw said.

Belinsky's 14-year baseball career included major league stints at Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Houston, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Last year he pitched eight innings in three games for the Redlegs before being sent to the minors.

Belinsky hurled a no-hit, no-run victory for the former Los Angeles Angels of the American League over Baltimore on May 5, 1962.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Forward Tom Workman has been traded to the Denver Rockets for a "future high draft choice," the Utah Stars announced Tuesday night.

The trade was announced after the two American Basketball Association teams played in Denver.

Workman, who has asked to be traded because he wasn't getting enough playing time, averaged 10 minutes a game in 17 games for the ABA Western Division leaders. He averaged seven points a game.

Find 'Sonny' Liston
Dead At His Home

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Charles "Sonny" Liston, the powerful former world heavyweight boxing champion, was found dead at his home late Tuesday night after his body lay about one week, sheriff's deputies said.

An investigation was launched immediately to see if there was foul play, the Clark County deputies said. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Liston's wife Geraldine, who was in St. Louis and tried to reach her husband by telephone and failed, found the body, said a spokesman for Palm Mortuary, which is handling funeral arrangements.

Liston, once considered the strongest of all heavyweights, boxed professionally from 1953 to 1969, winning the heavyweight crown Sept. 25, 1962, with a stunning first-round knockout over Floyd Patterson in Chicago.

The burly, 6-foot-1 Liston defended the title twice, winning a first-round knockout in a rematch with Patterson here on July 22, 1963, and then suffering an equally stunning seventh-round defeat to Cassius Clay, now known as Muhammad Ali, on Feb. 25, 1964.

In that fight, Liston fought a listless six rounds and failed to answer the bell for the seventh, claiming an arm injury.

He was blasted to the deck by Clay's mysterious "phantom punch" in Lewiston, Maine, on May 25, 1965, in a rematch. Some thought it was the punch that ended Liston's career but he launched a comeback in 1966 and at his death had a record of 48-3.

Liston, 38, was almost constantly in the news, either because of his stunning ring exploits that included 36 knockouts or because of his frequent run-ins with the law.

"I have been in the limelight two ways—good and bad," he once said. "Ever since I was born I've been fighting for my life."

Even before his pro boxing career began, he was involved with the law. "One night we wanted to do something exciting," he recently admitted. "We stuck up a restaurant and I wound up in jail." He served time in the Missouri State Penitentiary in the 1952 holdup.

Another term came in 1957. All through his career, including his championship years, he was in trouble with the law. He was arrested an estimated 20 times on various charges. Most recently, it was in connection with possession of a weapon.

He had a mean, fearsome scowl but was known as gentle and friendly out of the ring.

Clay called him "The Ugly Bear" and Sonny later said the defeat that lost him the title also lost him his dignity and his pride. It was the left arm that failed him—as medical reports later showed—but the word "quit" hurt Liston and some say that day in Miami Beach when he lost his title was the last time boxing saw the real Sonny Liston.

Utah Holds ABA West Lead;
Pittsburgh Drops To Last

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Utah's explosive third period kept the Stars two games ahead of the pack in the American Basketball Association West Tuesday night while Pittsburgh's defensive collapse in the fourth quarter dropped the Condors into last place in the East.

The Stars reeled off 14 points in a row to open a 67-49 lead against Denver, then coasted to a 114-99 triumph. The Condors, victimized by Texas' 46-point fourth period, fell to the Chaps 142-133.

In the only other ABA game Indiana turned back Memphis 92-88. In National Basketball Association play Baltimore beat Seattle 109-101, Detroit stopped Atlanta 98-90, Portland nipped Boston 124-120, Chicago slammed San Diego 116-103, Philadelphia edged San Francisco 97-92 and Cincinnati clobbered Los Angeles 146-112.

With Utah's Wayne Hightower and Zelmo Beaty dominating the backboards, the Stars kept Denver from getting closer than a dozen points and thus retained their slim margin over second place Indiana.

Merv Jackson and Don Freeman led Utah with 21 points apiece while Rockets rookie Ralph Simpson hit 26.

Joe Hamilton's 28 points, Glen Combs' 24 and Rich Jones' 23 led Texas' balanced attack. Pittsburgh's John Briskier hit 21 in the fourth quarter to take scoring honors with 47 but it wasn't enough to keep the Condors from slipping into the cellar, one-half game back of fifth-place Carolina.

Indiana opened a four-game margin over third-place Memphis after squandering a 12-point second-half lead against the Pros. Fred Lewis led the Pacers with 26 points.

Tiger Jr. High
Cagers Down
HT Five, 40-32

Circleville's Junior High cagers put on a big fourth quarter to down the Hamilton Township Junior High 40-32, Tuesday at the Ranger's court.

Circleville led 8-5 at the end of the first period, had a 13-11 margin at halftime, saw the lead narrowed to 24-23 at the end of the third stanza but the little Tigers roared in the fourth quarter to gain a 40-32 victory.

Perry Hoskins paced Circleville with 17 points, Phil Roll added nine, Mark McFadden had five, Bill Massie and Dave Bevan each had four and Biff Bumgarner had one to account for the Tiger totals.

Tope and Motika led the Hamilton Township cagers with 10 points apiece.

Circleville is now 2-2 for the season and Coach Dennis Stewart will send his boys back into action Thursday when they host the lads from Lancaster-Ewing at 4:30 p.m.

Track Stars
Form Union

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four former world record holders have formed a union for track and field athletes with the hope they can get better training facilities and treatment for athletes—or else.

Called United Amateur Athletes—the reverse of the AAU, Amateur Athletic Union—the new group plans to lobby for athletes and will boycott televised track meets "if track in this country doesn't improve in favor of the athlete," a spokesman says.

"We don't want to make the rules," says the spokesman, Gary Power. "We only want protection for amateur athletes and an upgrading of the sport."

"And if things don't get better soon, we plan to strike the television meets because that's where it'll hurt. Those TV meets bring in good money."

Power said the group wants better training facilities, a national training site and a say in who coaches athletes heading for Olympic competition.

"We have commitments from at least 50 top athletes and even a few college guys who are willing to take the consequences," Power said.

Power, one of the world's top high hurdlers with a best of 13.5 seconds, met Tuesday night with other founders of the group including the four ex-world record holders, pole vaulter John Pennel, hammer thrower Hal Connolly, decathlon performer Russ Hodge and 400-meter runner Mike Larrabee.

Power explained: "Athletes who have graduated from college have nothing to lose by joining our organization. And we tell those who are in college 'Look you're liable to get nailed by your school if you join us because they may take your scholarship away. But if you make this choice, we'll back you all the way.'"

"We're only a few months old as a group but we've already got enough power to really give them trouble."

Starr Is Chosen
Gridder Of Decade

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Bart Starr, who piloted the Green Bay Packers to five divisions and four world titles, has been designated the "Professional Football Player of the Decade" by the Columbus Touchdown Club.

Starr will be honored along with Ohio State quarterback Rex Kern, Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett and UCLA Quarterback Dennis Dummit at the club's 16th annual All Sports Dinner Feb. 5.

Ski Association
To Open Season

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The United States Ski Association will open its Junior Alpine racing season in the Central Division at Snow Trails Ski Resort Saturday.

The slalom and giant slalom races for youths 18 years old and younger in two classes will be the first qualifying and point meet of the Junior Alpine racing season.

From 30 to 60 skiers from Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and Lower Michigan are expected to participate in the two day meet ending Sunday.

Bullets Trip SuperSonics, 109-101

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Spencer Haywood did his thing once again—and Baltimore joined the list of National Basketball Association teams doing theirs.

Hollywood, recently signed by Seattle after becoming disenchanted with his contract with Denver of the rival American Basketball Association, was on the court again Tuesday night.

But the 6-foot-9 star, last season's ABA Most Valuable Player, couldn't keep the Bullets from shooting down the SuperSonics 109-101.

In other NBA action, Detroit whipped Atlanta 98-90, Portland edged Boston 124-120, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 97-92, Chicago clubbed San Diego 116-103 and Cincinnati stomped Los Angeles 146-112. In the ABA, Indiana nipped Memphis 92-88, Texas blitzed Pittsburgh 142-133 and Utah trimmed Denver 114-99.

Despite winning, the Bullets announced they were filing a protest against Haywood's presence, becoming the sixth NBA team to take issue with Seattle's acquisition of the former University of Detroit star.

The clubs contend the Sonics violated an NBA rule which prohibits the signing of a player before his college class is graduated. Haywood, whose class graduates this June, turned pro after his sophomore year.

Several teams are also insisting that Haywood's name be placed in the upcoming NBA draft and say Seattle's action could result in wholesale raids of college players by the pros.

But Len Wilkens, the Sonics' player-coach, replied: "We're not the ones who are violating the rules. The ABA already has. "He's not a college player," Wilkens said. "He's a pro. He's in the open market. I get tired of other teams suing us because we signed him. They wanted to sign him too."

Wilkens led Seattle against Baltimore with 27 points while Haywood scored 14, equalling the output in his NBA debut Monday night, a 124-110 loss in Milwaukee.

But Bullets, overcoming a nine-point deficit, rallied in the final period as Earl Monroe hit 10 of his 24 points. Gus Johnson also tallied 24 for the Central Division leaders.

Howard Komives' six points in the final four minutes enabled the Pistons to break an 86-86 tie and pull away from Atlanta. Otto Moore topped Detroit with 22. Lou Hudson of the Hawks hit 32.

Portland opened a fourth-quarter lead, then had to scramble to fight off Boston in the opener of a doubleheader in Philadelphia's Spectrum. Geoff Petrie and Rick Adelman, who led the Trail Blazers with 28 and 27 points respectively, hit the clutch baskets that sank the Celtics, led by JoJo White with 24.

In the nightcap the 76ers surprised the Nets.

Bruce Taylor Named NFL Defensive Rookie Of '70

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bruce Taylor, the cornerback and punt return specialist who keyed San Francisco's upset of Minnesota, was named by The Associated Press today as the National Football League's Defensive Rookie of the Year.

Taylor, who joined the 49ers out of Boston University, received 23 votes from a special panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Jim Fyles, the New York Giants middle linebacker from Oklahoma, was second with 14 votes in the balloting that encompassed both the National and American Conference. Previously separate polls were conducted for the National and American Football Leagues.

Mike Reid, Cincinnati's punting tackle from Penn State, was third and the high vote-getter for the American Conference with nine.

Quarterback Dennis Shaw of the Buffalo Bills was named top offensive rookie Tuesday.

"Punt returns are my thing," says Taylor who didn't score any touchdowns doing his thing but did it well enough to lead the National Conference by returning 43 punts for 516 yards and a 12-yard average.

"You have to like to return punts," says Taylor whose longest return was a 65-yarder against Chicago. But his two big ones were of 30 and 20 yards that set up touchdowns in San Francisco's 17-14 upset of Minnesota in the divisional playoffs.

"I have my own way of doing it," says Taylor, of Perth Amboy, N.J., who also ran back 12 kickoffs for 190 yards. "I watch the ball as soon as it's kicked and decide where it's going. Then I watch the coverage and try and find a hole. After I decide where I'm going, I concentrate on catching the ball."

At cornerback, one of the most difficult positions to play, Taylor intercepted three passes and returned one 70 yards.

Others receiving votes were backs Ken Ellis of Green Bay, Lema Parrish of Cincinnati and Jake Scott of Miami, ends Jim Mitchell of Detroit and Cedric Hardman of San Francisco and linebacker Bob Babich of San Diego.

Marquette Tops Loyola

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Marquette's third-ranked, undefeated Warriors wasted no time rolling to their 22nd successive victory—the nation's longest streak—while No. 1 Villanova waited until the intermission was over to post an impressive triumph.

The Warriors, 10-0 this season, racked up 10 straight points early in the game en route to a 78-63 trouncing of Chicago Loyola in Tuesday night's top collegiate basketball game.

But the Wildcats, leading North Dakota State by a slim 43-37 margin at the break, smothered the host B'sons with a second-half zone defense and stormed to a 94-61 victory, their 10th in 13 games.

In other major hoopla, Furman handed Davidson its first Southern Conference setback in 36 games, 84-75; St. Louis University turned back Southern Illinois 84-70; Minnesota rallied for a 92-87 overtime victory over Niagara; Oklahoma outscored Arkansas 115-110; East Carolina shelled Richmond 79-63 and New Orleans Loyola hung on to turn back hard-charging Hawaii 111-104.

fore beating Rhode Island 98-92, Northwestern beat the Australia: Nationals 74-71, Baylor walloped Sul Ross 115-77, Buffalo State beat Albany State 69-53 and East Stroudsburg belted Scranton 108-89 in the championship semifinals of the Pocono Classic and Wisconsin-Green Bay nipped Stetson 67-66 for the Stearns-Hatter Invitational crown.

vived a late-game spell of cold shooting to turn back San Francisco. Archie Clark scored 22 for Philadelphia and Nate Thurmond's 28 led the Warriors, who stormed from 15 points back before losing.

Cincinnati rolled up its biggest point total of the season despite a season-high outburst of 41 points by Los Angeles center Wilt Chamberlain, who also passed the 20,000 career rebound mark. Johnny Green's 34 points and Tom Van Arsdale's 31 led the Royals.

Casper Set To Defend LA Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — PGA player of the year Billy Casper starts defending his crown Thursday in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open, the first stop of 1971 on the richest of all pro golf tours.

The sedate, 39-year-old Casper used the LA Open last year as a springboard to one of his better seasons, $147,000 in winnings and four tournament titles including the prestigious Masters.

But he has a sparkling field likely to be one of the best on the winter tour arrayed against him here as the pros inaugurate a 63-tourney swing that goes through Dec. 12 and has about $7.1 million up for grabs.

Opposing him are most of the record 16 men who won more than $100,000 last season, including the aging, frustrated but grimly determined Arnold Palmer.

Palmer won more than $128,000 last year, finished second three times but failed—for the first time in 15 years—to nail down an individual title.

The tournament, a 72-hole affair that begins Thursday on the Municipal Rancho Park Golf Club Course, has increased its total value to $110,000 this year and entertainer Campbell added his name to the title.

Urge Pilots To Report Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's private pilots were urged today to make use of their unique vantage points in the fight against air pollution.

The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association asked private pilots, most of whom fly slowly and fairly low, to photograph instances of serious air pollution for local or national clean-air agencies.

In an editorial in the magazine Pilot, AOPA senior vice president Max Karant told the association's 158,000 members: "Photograph the plumes of smoke, record the date and time, and send the documents to local authorities."

"If they don't do anything send it to AOPA and we'll see that the appropriate federal office gets it."

Karant said the AOPA pollution-picture program is not aimed at any specific industry or pollutant.

"I am confident that many industry people aren't fully aware how much area is affected by just one smokestack and that when they see the documented proof from above they will be more eager to take corrective measures," Karant said.

Karant, noting frequent appeals of cooperation in pollution control, added: "If all the public talkers really mean what they say, hardly anyone can help more than AOPA members going about their daily flights."

'Living Free'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nigel Davenport and Susan Hampshire have been signed to star in "Living Free," Columbia Pictures' sequel to "Born Free." The movie will be filmed in Africa.

Clarence Smith's 21 points, Tom Ingelsby's 19 and Hank Siemionkowski's 18 paced Villanova while Mike Kuppich scored 21 for NDS.

Furman's Paladins put together a balanced attack with five players in double figures to drop Davidson's season mark to 6-3 and its conference record to 3-1. Furman, also 6-3 overall, is 2-0 in loop play. Russ Hunt was the 'oo Paladi' with 17 points and Steve Kirley the Davidson leader with 15.

St. Louis, railing 26-21 with 6:41 to play in the first half, hit 14 consecutive points to take a 38-30 halftime lead, then expanded it to as many as 18 points in the second session. The Billikens were paced by Carlos Martinez's 22 points while Greg Starick was high for the SIU Salukis with 20.

Ollie Sharr on sat out Minnesota's first half with an ankle injury, then hit 15 second-half points as the Gophers, back by as many as eight, knotted the score 75-75 at the end of regulation play.

Jim Brewer, who led the winners with 24 points, put them ahead to stay with their first two field goals of the overtime. Al Williams had 27 for Niagara.

Vernon Muroh of Arkansas broke school records with 19 free throws and 23 free throw attempts—but his game-high 33 points weren't enough to cool off the Sooners, who scored the most points in their history, Bobby Jack hit 27 for Oklahoma.

East Carolina's Pirates held Richmond without a point for nearly 10 minutes while scoring 22 of their own, shooting a sizzling 71 per cent in the second half. Jim Fairley's 21 points paced the Pirates. Mike Anastasio had 18 for the Siders.

New Orleans Loyola shot 71 per cent from the field in the first half to build a 63-50 halftime lead, only to have Hawaii tie the score at 100-100 before the Wolfpack, led by Ty Marieaux's 31 points, pulled away. At Davis of the Rainbows was the top point man with 35.

In other action, South Alabama defeated Penn State 74-68 to capture the Senior Bowl tournament's championship and Tri-University of San Antonio, Tex. beat Virginia Military Institute 95-70 in the consolation game, heavily favored Providence blew a 27-point halftime lead be-

The other bill, offered by Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-59 Westerville, provides for a $1,000 exemption for all over 65 earning at least $7,500, and a $3,000 exemption for the rest.

A bill asking the repeal of an Ohio law permitting up to $50 million in interm state money to be invested in short term commercial notes also found a new sponsor for this session, as did a measure requiring 25 per cent of city income taxes collected to be returned to the municipality in which the taxpayer lives.

Coupon Collection To Continue

Mrs. Helen Knece, area representative of the Central Ohio Kidney Foundation, reminds local residents to continue saving Crocker coupons. Until May 31, coupons collected can be redeemed for a kidney machine.

After this date, coupons may be exchanged through arrangements with General Mills for equipment related to kidney disease but as yet unidentified.

The Foundation hopes to collect enough coupons to purchase at least one more kidney machine before the offer expires May 31. A machine for hospital use requires 600,000 coupons. One for home use can be purchased with 300,000 coupons.

To date, the Foundation has purchased four machines through coupon collected in the central Ohio area. General Mills announced in December it would discontinue redeeming Crocker coupons for the life-saving kidney machine because of accusations that the firm was trading on human misery.

Coupons may be deposited in Circleville at the police station, the Salvation Army Store, Revo and Bingham Drugs, in Ashville at the Coffe Shop and at any cottage of the Orient State Institute.

Coupons may also be mailed to Mrs. Knece at Route 1, Kingston.

slated Jan. 13, in the 4-H Grange Building. Speaker for the event will be Dr. Herb True, well-known toastmaster and speaker.

Applications for membership in the chamber were approved Tuesday for Carl Leigh of the Cliftona Theater, Larry Cupp of Larry's Marathon and Mack Wise of Wise Garage and AAX Service.

Doyle Spangler, chamber president, announced that all available volunteer help would be needed in renovating the new chamber offices in the old Second National Bank Building. Volunteers are to contact the chamber office at 474-4923 to "sign up" for the work program. The new facilities are to be opened Feb. 1.

IN OTHER chamber action, the resignation of Robert Hoycross was accepted with a replacement to be named by Spangler.

New directors attending Tuesday's session included Wally Yamarick, Dick Shaw, Al Berger, Dick Pettit, Bill Heiskell, Ralph Ankrom, Dr. Carlos Alvarez, John Stevenson, Jack Mader and Kenny Fosnaugh.

Committee chairmen for 1970 are as follows: John Stevenson, Agri-Business; Axa Elsea, airport; Earl Palm, area development; Ned Harden, city-county planning; Dean Logan, community appearance; Bill Stout, congressional action; Joe Tighe, education; Dick Pettit, public relations; Ward Skinner, retail merchants; Clarence Radcliffe, safety and health; Kenneth Fosnaugh, welcome and membership.

Patrol Submits Monthly, 1970 Reports

Circleville's post of the State Highway Patrol released a year end report for 1970 listing various activities for the entire year.

In 1970, the Franklin and Pickaway County highways under the post's jurisdiction saw 11 deaths in traffic accidents. A total of 463 persons received injuries in 834 accidents investigated by patrolmen.

In a campaign against the drunken driver, 394 arrests were made for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Case reports involving stolen cars, recovered property, felony offenses and other incidents numbered 295 for the entire year.

In December, 23 case reports were made. Assistance to stranded motorists during the last month of the year was offered in 477 separate cases.

December, 1970 also brought 621 arrests by local post officers including 43 drunk drivers.

Accidents for the month numbered 59 in which 61 persons received injuries ranging from minor to very severe. There were no fatal accidents under the Patrol's investigation.

City Board Reorganizes

Circleville City Board of Education held a noon meeting Tuesday for the purpose of organizing their 1971 school board.

Members voted to return R. L. (Bud) Brehmer Jr. to the president's seat, a position he has held for the past eight years. With this session, Brehmer is beginning his 20th year as a board member.

Re-elected to the vice-presidency was Dale DeLong. Other members of the board are Mrs. Ruth Crist, Tom Elsea and Forrest Brown.

The city board affirmed the meeting dates as the second Tuesday of the month beginning 7:30 p.m. except for the May through September meetings which begin at 8 p.m.

Members adopted a tentative appropriation for school operations in 1971 amounting to $1,927,234.

While 160 racial incidents were reported in secondary schools since classes opened this fall, the figure is below the 299 recorded in the same period in 1969 Hoover said.

Urban racial disturbances, totaling 140 for the year, were down from the peak of the mid 1960s, Hoover said, adding:

Foreigners Blame Congress For U.S. Economic Woes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amanda Board Elects '71 Officers

The five-member Amanda Clearcreek Board of Education met Monday evening to elect new officers for the coming year.

President and vice president for the 1971 term are Robert W. Turner and Ronald F. Bates respectively.

Other citizens making up the five member board are Mrs. Norma Jean Muck, Jack W. Fausnaugh, Paul D. Kraft, Clerk of the board is Ann Cole.

Regular monthly meetings are to be held the second Monday of each month from 8-11 p.m. in the Amanda building.

General Fund appropriations tentatively set for the 1971 term amounted to $75,566.57.

Board members also designated the Clearcreek Valley Bank as the official depository for the next two years.

ry to see the 91st Congress dissolved," the Financial Times said last week. It called the 91st "a muddled, ill-tempered, do-nothing Congress" that set up a situation in which Nixon will have to "run against Congress" in 1972.

Lord Balogh, economic adviser to the British Cabinet from 1964 through 1967, wrote in the Evening Standard that Nixon should change his orthodox economic policies to avert even higher unemployment and lower production. The radical approach, Lord Balogh wrote, should include agreement with labor and industry on wage and price controls.

The Washington correspondent of Le Monde wrote of another sticky Nixon administration problem. The prisoners of war held in North-Vietnam, Jacques Amalric said the administration was "visibly embarrassed" after Hanoi released a list of 368 prisoners and said it was complete.

"Unless it claims that North Vietnamese leaders are lying and have released an incomplete list," Amalric wrote in the Paris newspaper, "it will be more difficult in the future for American authorities to accuse Hanoi of inhumanity toward the families of the pilots classified among the missing."

In another part of the world, Tokyo's Sankei said U.S. policy toward Japan is becoming contradictory because of the complicated political and economic problems they face together.

Sankei, accused the President of discrimination against Japan by promising during his election campaign to seek unilateral Japanese textile export concessions.
